FIERCE CANNON DUEL AT MADERO PALACE

'RANTOUL THREW A STOPPER'

Mrs. Lois Burnett Rantoul, James Russell Lowell's granddaughter, who is suing her husband, Edward L. Rantoul, for divorce at East Cambridge, told Judge Hall, when she resumed the witness stand today, that Rantoul once threw the stopper of an ammonia bottle at her while she was in bed at their home, "Elmwood," Cambridge, recovering from an operation.

Mrs. Rantoul's story today, continuing her recital of alleged cruelties and abuses by her husband, on which she bases her divorce libel, was in part as follows:

In February, 1911, I was in bed at "Elmwood," soon after an operation. His (Rantoul) came up to my room and started to talk. He pounded the wall at the head of my bed, bending it with his fists. He did this quite a while.

Then he went across the room and hurled the stopper of my ammonia bottle at me. It did not hit me. I called to Miss Ellen, the nurse. She came in, but I did not notice he was in the room. He said: "I'm here. I'll take care of her."

The children came in. He said I was unfit to take care of the children.

Alleges Profanity.

On his birthday, February 7, 1911, I arranged a dinner for him. [illegible], although I was sick at the time.

When he came home he brought up some flowers that Frank Thompson of Philadelphia, a guest in the house, had given him. I thanked him.

He said it was to —— bad; if people know how low a woman I was they would not send me flowers. Then he asked:

"How long are these —— doctors and nurses going to be around?"

I got up and tried to get out of the room. He ran ahead of me and barred the door. If I tried to pass him I might have been hurt. Finally he let me out. He followed me into my own room.

All this time he was shaking his finger or fist in my face and calling me names. I never lost my temper with him but that once.

Again in her testimony Mrs. Rantoul said:

Suggested Separation.

Mr. Rantoul came up to my room two steps at a time, fast in hand. I was on the sofa. He said to me:

"I will possibly agree to one thing —living apart, if I am to be free to go where I want to go."

He said I must not follow him up, must not charge things at Herrick's or at the Somerset Club, and I was not to say anything to anybody about it.

He said he would take the children apart and tell them what a frightful woman I was.

I tried to get to the door of my room. He barred the door to keep me in. He held my arm very tightly. Then he locked me up against the bookcase. He shook his fist in my face.

"You promise not to tell about our separation or I'll break you," heyelled.

Tried to Pull Ring Off.

I finally got away from him and went into my bedroom from the sitting room. I sat down and took up a book. He yelled at me some more; "I guess you did not hear what I said did you?"

He tried to pull off my wedding ring. "I guess you did not hear that last remark," he kept shouting.

He put his face down close and yelled in my ear. Miss McCarthy put her hand over my ear. She finally managed to get him out of the room and send him down to supper.

One time he came and sat down on a sofa where I was sitting. He kept snapping my ankles with his fingers. I tried to leave the room but he chased me about. He called Dr. Putnam a —— fool.

He said I was a fake about all my sickness and that I ought to get out and get the air.

One death was reported from today's zero temperature.

The body of a man about thirty-five years old was found on the Lowell road in the town of Tyngsboro at 9:30 a. m. He had been frozen to death. He wore no overcoat, but had a heavy brown sweater over his jacket. His hair is brown and curly. The body lay near the State trolley tracks, but death was not due to any car injury.

The Weather Man prognosies a rising temperature. His forecast for Boston and vicinity is:

"Fair, with slowly rising temperature tonight and Friday. Moderate westerly winds."

Today's minimum temperature of four degrees above zero was only one degree warmer than Monday's record low reading for this Winter.

From subzero came unofficial thermometer readings, ranging down to zero and below.

The weather man expects that, when this warmer temperature does come, it will last for a day or two, with fair skies. So the prospect from now until Sunday or so, seems quite agreeable.

New England boasted the coldest place on the U. S. weather map today in Greenville, Me., which was at 10 below. Nantucket was New England's warmest at 12 above.

EDWARDS ARRESTED ON BRIBERY CHARGE

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 13.—Colonel William Seymour Edwards, candidate for the United States Senate, was arrested today charged with bribing Delegate John M. Smith of Tyler County. The warrant was issued at the instance of Delegate S. A. G. Rhodes of Mingo, one of the five men arrested Tuesday for accepting bribes. Soon after the arrest Colonel Edwards he furnished bail.

PARDON IS DENIED TO C. F. KING

"Cornelius F. King will not be pardoned by the Executive Council."

This statement was made today by an executive official of the Governor's Council at the State House. The official then continued:

Governor Foss has informed the council that he would not approve of a pardon for King if it was recommended by only a bare majority of the council. The Governor wants the recommendation to be either unanimous or overwhelming. The council is practically evenly divided, as to whether or not King should be pardoned. Therefore, it appears that King will have to remain in jail.

There were rumors at the State House today that opposition to King's release has come from State street.

At least four of the nine members of the council, it is said, are of the opinion that King is in no worse condition today than he was before he was sentenced to imprisonment, and that, therefore, the argument of his counsel that his physical condition warrants executive clemency is not sufficient ground for a pardon.

According to information which became known today, the inability of the council to come to an agreement upon the terms of the pardon was due not only to the protests since the public hearing several weeks ago, but also to the feeling on the part of several of the councillors that there might be popular distress over the justification of a release if King were to appear about town again looking nearly as well as ever, in spite of the serious nature of his affliction, which is admitted.

The council will hold its next regular meeting next Wednesday, when the matter will again be considered.

WHITE SLAVE CASE IN FEDERAL COURT

A hearing was given before the Federal court today in the cases of Salvatore Zucco and Joseph San Leng, both of Pittsfield, who were arrested Friday on a secret indictment charging them with violating the White Slave law. The complainant in the case is Miss Rose Smith, a pretty Pittsfield girl who lived at Farmer's Inn, a boarding house kept by Zucco. They were arrested a week ago, but were discharged by United States Commissioner Wood after a hearing. The Federal inspectors presented the case before the Grand Jury and the men were indicted.

WILSON TO MAKE NO ANNOUNCEMENT OF CABINET NAMES

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 13.—President-elect Wilson will make no announcement of his Cabinet at all, but will send his nominations to the Senate after his inauguration. This plan he decided upon after "authoritative" announcements from Washington that he was to announce his Cabinet today. Those Washington dispatches have been most annoying to the President-elect.

"Is it true that you intend to announce your Cabinet today?" he was asked.

"It is not true that I intend to announce my Cabinet today?" was the reply.

"Or on Friday?" was asked.

"Nor on Friday," said the President-elect.

Out of respect to Edward J. Mitton, who passed away yesterday afternoon, the governing board of the Retail Trade Board suggests that the retail stores of Boston close from 2 o'clock to 3 o'clock today afternoon, February 14, which is the time of the funeral. The governing board trusts that all will accede to its request in showing this last mark of respect.

DROP REMAINING CHARGES IN CASE OF ETTOR AND OTHERS

SALEM, Feb. 13.—The last word in the Lawrence strike cases was heard today, when District Attorney Henry C. Atwell dismissed the charges of conspiracy against Joseph J. Ettor, Arthur Giovannitti, William D. Haywood, William E. Trautmann, James P. Thompson, William D. Yates, Thomas Holliday, Edmund Rossoni and Gildo Mazzarella. The charge of rioting against Ettor was also dismissed.

This action was effected as a consequence of the collapse of the government's case in the recent murder trials of Ettor and others for conspiracy in the recent strikes.

TAFT ACTS TODAY ON IMMIGRATION BILL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—President Taft today gave a final hearing on the new immigration act, against the literacy test of which there have been numerous protests from various sources. Objections also have been registered by several foreign nations.

The President today will decide whether to sign the bill or return it to Congress with a veto. Should he fail to sign or veto by tomorrow morning, the bill would become a law without his signature.

MACHINE GUNS WORK HAVOC WITH BUILDINGS DURING ENGAGEMENT

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 13.—The battle between the Maderists and the Diaz revolutionists was renewed with still greater fury today, and soon after dawn shells and bullets were flying all over the capital.

The fighting raged all day in a great artillery duel before the palace of Madero.

An intermittent bombardment of the National Palace, where President Madero and his loyal troops are besieged, was kept up all night by the insurgent artillerymen. At dawn there was a brief lull, following which the battle was resumed.

During the night the federals received four carloads of ammunition and every cannon and machine gun in the government batteries was in action shortly after 8 o'clock.

Many buildings in the line of fire were smashed or set on fire by the projectiles.

MADERO REFUSES TO RESIGN.

Both President Madero and Colonel Felix Diaz, leader of the insurgents, had posted pickets during the night, and these kept up a scattered fire. Insurgent sharpshooters from the rebel land of Zapata, who had entered the city during the night, took stations upon the tops of high buildings and tried to pick off the federal sentries on top of the palace and in the lawn fronting the palace. A powerful searchlight was turned on the palace, and in its glare the victims of the sharpshooters' fire could easily be seen. During the respite in the firing at sunrise, Senor de la Barra, former Mexican Ambassador at Washington, called upon Madero in the National palace under a flag of truce and begged Madero for the sake of humanity to resign, in order that there be no further bloodshed. "I will never resign!" shouted President Madero in anger.

Both rebels and federals were stronger today, having received reinforcements during the night, but both sides occupied the same positions that they have held since Sunday. Neither seemed to have gained any advantage.

The troops were pretty exhausted, for

EXPECT THAT 34,000 RAILROAD FIREMEN WILL STRIKE SUNDAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Unless some middle ground of agreement is reached tomorrow by the fifty-four Eastern railroads and their 34,000 firemen it is considered likely that a strike will be called Friday night, effective forty-eight hours thereafter.

This was the consensus of opinion today of those following the conferences through which Judge Martin A. Knapp of the United States Commerce Court has been trying to bring the two sides together. Each has refused to concede a single point.

President Carter and the members of the adjustment committee of the union went into conference with the mediators at 10:30 o'clock today. The union leader said that flat statements attributed to him that a strike would be called without fail on Friday night were too strong. He had set no time for the strike, he said.

TOWN WILL LOAN MONEY TO FARMERS

LA HARPE, Kan., Feb. 13.—This town's surplus money will no longer be deposited in banks to draw a small rate of interest, but will be loaned to Kansas farmers. The City Council has passed an ordinance authorizing the Mayor to loan the money on farms at 5 per cent. interest.

SPRINGFIED CHURCH BURNS; LOSS $30,000

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 12.—Fire, which started from a gas stove which had been left burning all night, practically destroyed the First Highland Baptist Church today. The loss is estimated at $30,000.

One of the most beautiful organs in the State was a total loss, the instrument costing $8,000 only five years ago.

At a meeting of the Christian Endeavor Union of the Wealdeld Baptist Association, the gas stove was used for refreshments, and remained alight all night.

Shortly before 7 a. m. today this ignited woodwork in the kitchen, and the blaze soared its way upward into the organ and then spread to the auditorium.

During the fire, Captain Noah Ashley of Engine 9 was overcome by smoke for several minutes, and Andrew Cuneo of Squad A was cut by falling glass.

Two threatening fires about eighteen months before that five, led fire insurance men to withdraw risks upon the Highland Baptist property. The circumstances surrounding these fires, which were put out in the infancy, were suppressed as far as possible, as to the origin of discovering the identity of the perpetrators.

In the summer, 1900, a lighted candle was discovered in a cigar box in the barn of Terrance Flanagan, which stands in the rear and in close proximity to the church. The incident caused uneasiness on the part of the Highland Baptist parishioners. James W. Anderson, deputy fire marshal, investigated the affair, but found no clues and could attribute no motive other than "pure devilry."

The 1900 fire started in Flanagan's barn and spread to the church.

RICHARD SULLIVAN, South Boston boy, who says school principal broke his eardrum in punishing him.

BOY CONTINUES HIS STORY IN THE EAR-DRUM SUIT

Richard Sullivan, the ten year old boy who is suing J. Gardiner Bassett, principal of the Bigelow School, South Boston, for $10,000 damages, alleging that his eardrum was broken as a result of a beating, was again on the witness stand today in the Superior Court before Judge Dana. The suit is brought by his father, Richard J. Sullivan.

The lad testified on cross examination that he had not told the truth when he said he stood for two days in the hall of the school. He said:

Boy Tells His Story.

I had gone into Room 14, where the seventh grade is. I think it was Miss Cole's room. I was told to stand in the hall and study my geography. I had no business in Miss Cole's room. I just peeked in. I told the jury yesterday that I was standing in the hall two days. I was not standing, but sitting. The reason why I answered my lawyer's questions that way yesterday is because I have recited the story of my case three or four times a day to myself.

My ear bled from the slaps and shakings Mr. Bassett gave me, and when I went to bed my pillow was covered with blood.

Christopher Cann, No. 223A West Fifth street, a schoolmate of young Sullivan, corroborated Sullivan's original testimony. He testified that Principal Bassett had slapped Richard on the face severely, that he saw finger marks and scratches on Richard's cheek, that his collar and coat collar were torn and that he was bleeding from the ear.

Other Schoolboys Testify.

Several other schoolboys were giving testimony to the effect that Dick was punished for "talking and fooling," that he was sent by his teacher, Miss Stumpf, to the office of the principal, to report to him how badly he had behaved and submit to his judgment. Among them were Michael Harrington, No. 556 East Sixth street; Frank Burns, No. 164 F street; Joe Nelson, No. 107 West Seventh street, all of South Boston.

The boys agreed to the extent that Dick Sullivan was pushed. There was a variance as to whether he was slapped in the right jaw or the left. One of them testified that he was slapped twice, once on each cheek.

Dr. Curran Testifies.

Dr. Simon F. Curran of No. 194 Norfolk street, Dorchester, said that he examined the boy last May and found a slight perforation upon his ear drum, which seemed to be of recent origin. He said that in time the perforation may have the effect of impairing the boy's hearing. He said further that being punched in the jaw might produce such a perforation.

The clerk of the Boston Dispensary with his records, the testimony of the father of the boy, and the deposition of Dr. Cann, who is ill at her home, No. 29 Rawson street, South Boston, were all introduced to sustain the fact that the youthful plaintiff was injured at the hands of the dignified principal of the Bigelow Street School.

ALSBERG, WILEY SUCCESSOR, TO KEEP UP WAR

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Dr. Carl L. Alsberg, appointed recently to the position of Chief of the Bureau of Chemistry of the Department of Agriculture, delivered his first public statement of policy at the annual meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers of Medicinal Products at the Waldorf-Astoria.

He took occasion to urge a closer regulation of medicinal nostrums, and confined his remarks largely to a discussion of the problem of pure drugs, rather than that of pure food. He said in part:

The bureau hopes to co-operate with the various branches of the food industry in living up to laws framed upon a scientific principle, to eliminate waste and in the ultimate benefit to the best advantage. The bureau factors to do for the trade what the Bureaus of the Department of Agriculture are doing for the farmer.

I wish to assure you that the bureau stands ready to co-operate with your association, because we co-ordinate is to the best interests of all. We feel you have learned the lesson that the application of science to commercial things is the wisest and best course.

A field that is ripe for co-operation between us is that of the control and regulation of the handling and sale of drugs and their preparation.

The eyes of the people have, in the past, centred upon the department's struggle for pure foods. This work has, I think you will admit, been very successful in improving the quality of our foods, and preventing the grave forms of fraud and adulteration. Public confidence has been won. No backward step will be taken. They will be no letup in the enforcement of the Pure Food and Drugs Act.

ARSENIC KILLED WELLS CHILDREN, CHEMIST FINDS

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Feb. 13.—Enough arsenic has been found in the bodies of little Marie and Lewis Wells to kill several adults, according to the official report today from the State chemist at Burlington to Attorney-General Rufus Brown, who has been conducting the investigations in the poison mystery since the arrest of Mrs. Annie May Wells, mother of the children, who is accused of slaying them.

Immediately after receiving the report, the attorney-general declared he is certain the children were the victims of foul play. Later he conferred with State Attorney Orland Ladd and announced that a special grand jury will sit next Monday in this city to hear the evidence in the case.

Mrs. Wells, who is in the county jail here, will not be arraigned on the grave charge against her. She will be held without bail until the grand jury has reported.

Dr. B. H. Stone, the State chemist at Burlington, who examined the internal organs of the slain children, would not disclose his report today other than to admit that he had found arsenic in sufficient quantities to cause "the deaths of several adults."

WOMEN OPPOSE STRAW BALLOT ON SUFFRAGE

Representatives of each of the dominant political parties in the State, augmented by delegations from the State Branch of the American Federation of Labor, Equal Suffrage Association, Political Equality Union and other bodies appeared today in opposition to Representative Drury's bill to provide for an expression of opinion by the voters of the State at the next State election on the question of woman suffrage.

Under the terms of the bill only those women who vote for school committee candidates and male voters would cast their ballots. The adoption or rejection of the measures by the voters in question would not make the matter binding on the Legislature to pass a woman's suffrage bill.

The hearing was held in room No. 240, the largest committee room in the State House. The room was crowded to the doors with women. A large number stood in the corridors.

Representative Drury, Republican, of Waltham, was the only person who spoke in favor of the bill.

Former Representative Joseph Walker opposed the bill. So did Mrs. Susan W. FitzGerald of the Political Equality Union. They said the bill was merely a scheme to delay the passage of a law permitting women to vote for all State officers. Mrs. Ripley of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union corroborated them. The equal suffrage association leaders want the Legislature to pass an amendment to the constitution for women suffrage and then submit it to the voters for adoption or rejection.

WOMAN SAVES THREE GAS VICTIMS; BARELY ESCAPES HERSELF

Nearly overcome herself by the fumes of gas, Ella Hanna of No. 91 Gold street, South Boston, staggered to a telephone in the basement of the restaurant at Nos. 181 and 183 Summer street, and telephoned for help, saving the lives of Richard Krubal of East Dedham and Harry Reith and Charles Scherner of Somerville. She fell unconscious after telephoning and was taken home in a serious condition.

Mrs. Hanna discovered the men staggering around in the basement when, smelling gas, she tried to trace its source. The four were revived by a physician sent by the gas company.

STEPHEN R. DOW, promoter on trial for larceny of about $300,000 from his business associates. From a snapshot taken today.

PACKING CASE OF EVIDENCE AT THE DOW TRIAL

Enough cash books and ledgers and general records of the Michigan Mining Company to fill a packing case were introduced as evidence today by the government at the trial of Stephen R. Dow of Brookline, president of the defunct brokerage firm of Stephen R. Dow & Co., No. 60 Congress street, who is charged with the larceny of $500,000 of the funds of the various mining companies which he exploited.

The proceedings opened with the resumption of the direct examination of Dow's confidential clerk, Alvin R. Bailey, a veteran of the Civil War, who told how he made out checks for large amounts when Dow requested money of him, and how Dow gave in return unindorsed notes without collateral.

Assistant District Attorney A. C. Webber continued sharply to examine Mr. Bailey concerning these amounts which he advanced to Dow. These were for $2,000 to $50,000.

Questioning Begins.

Q.—Take this $10,000 note dated August 17, 1912. Do you recall, Mr. Bailey, that Mr. Dow came to you and said: "Make out this promissory note for $10,000 on the State Street Company and I will discount it and come around tomorrow for the money?" A.—I don't remember any such conversation.

Q.—Didn't you tell Mr. Dow at that time that there was only $438 available and that you couldn't give him the $10,000 and that he then suggested the note?

A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Did you know what he did with the money?

A.—No.

Q.—And you didn't care, did you?

A.—I can't say that.

Mr. Bailey testified that Dow had the confidence of the safe and access to the cash.

Q.—Did you see Mr. Dow frequently looking over the various books and records of the several mining companies A.—I did.

Mr. Bailey further testified that there was only $438 in the treasury Nov. 30, 1910, and he needed money to pay the help. He told Dow, who gave him a check for $1,000, which he cashed and entered. The witness gave numerous dates when the same conditions existed and Dow advanced anywhere from $1,000 to $3,500 to meet emergencies.

Upon cross examination, the witness testified, Dow got a loan of $10,000 on the Indiana Mining Company, leaving only 72 cents in the bank to the credit of the Indiana Company.

Mr. Bailey said he was obliged to borrow $3,500 to pay salaries and meet other expenses.

Survivor of Ford Theatre Cast Tells of Lincoln's Death

NORTH ADAMS, Feb. 13.—Mrs. May Brooke, the only surviving woman of the cast which played in Ford's Theatre in Washington the night Lincoln was assassinated, gives a vivid description of what took place when Booth fired the fatal shot. Mrs. Brooke is the guest of Mayor Wallace E. Brown of this city. She said:

It was a gala night and the house was packed to its capacity. The President walked slowly into his box, and with his tall figure bent, his homely face careworn and weary, he stood in the box bowing to the audience.

At last the enthusiasm spent itself and the great man sat down. He rested his head on his hand, but did not appear to see the show that was going on beneath him. His great soft eyes were filled with the saddest expression I ever saw.

Suddenly there was a pop like that of a cork coming from a bottle. The President's head, which rested upon his hand, dropped forward to his breast. Booth darted through the box to the front of the stage, leaped upon the rail and jumped toward the stage below. His spur caught in the bunting with which the box was draped and he fell heavily forward, breaking his leg. He was up in an instant. Brandishing a knife, he shouted, "The South is avenged," and he disappeared at the prompt side of the stage.

I was later arrested and my deposition was taken. When it was found that I did not know John Wilkes Booth, I was released.

Dean Briggs Urges Harvard to Buy Up "Gold Coast" Halls

A "dormitory merger" at Harvard, with the purchase by the Harvard Corporation of all private dormitories, including the luxurious quarters of the wealthy students on the "Gold Coast," is the suggestion made by Dean LeBaron Russell Briggs at a smoker held by the sophomore class in the Harvard Union. It is estimated that the cost of the dormitories which are now privately owned, including Claverly, Ridgely, Randolph, Russell and Westmorley Halls on the "Gold Coast," would be at least $1,000,000.

Fritzi Scheff to Remarry John Fox, Jr., Is Late Report

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Feb. 13.—Fritzi Scheff and John Fox, Jr., from whom she has just secured a divorce, are to remarry, according to report today.

Mr. Fox was seen with Miss Scheff today. Both were smiling and happy. Miss Scheff is starting at a local theatre. Mr. Fox arrived in town just before the show commenced. He occupied a box and then, just before the play was over, went behind the scenes.

The scene Clare was hinted at by the prima donna's manager. He smiled significantly, put his finger to his lips, and whispered, "It's all right now. That's all."

Miss Scheff refused to discuss this latest phase of her marital situation today. But, when she was seen with Mr. Fox she smiled and waved her hand.

TEN THOUSAND TURKS FALL IN BULAIR DEFEAT

SOFIA, Feb. 12.—A decisive defeat has been inflicted upon the Turks at Bulair in the Gallipoli peninsula, and at least 10,000 Turks were killed and wounded, according to an official announcement.

At the same time the denial was made of an announcement given out by the Turkish government officials in Constantinople that the Ottoman force had won at any point in Europe.

"All Constantinople reports of Turkish victories are false," says this official communique.

"During the general fighting of the past ten days the Turks suffered enormous losses. Already the Bulgarians have buried over 6,000 Turkish corpses and the ground between the Bulgarian front and the Turkish works at Bulair is still covered with Turkish dead.

"The distance separating the two armies at Bulair is three miles.

"During attempts to land on the coast of the Sea of Marmora, the Turks lost thousands of men. At several points, the Turks were driven back on board their transports.

"The Bulgarians are successfully continuing the siege at Adrianople and the bombardment of the city is carried on daily. All sorties by the Turks have been repulsed.

"Along the Tchataija lines the Bulgarians have held their own against the sorties of the Turks and the Bulgarian lines there are unbroken."

HIRSH URGES ADVERTISERS TO USE NEWSPAPERS

Merchants and advertising men were discussing with interest today the address on "What Is Advertising," delivered by Sig Hirsh of the Henry Siegal Company's Boston store before the class of the Springfield Y. M. C. A., which is studying "Modern Methods In Merchandising." During his talk Mr. Hirsh said:

The retail merchant does not devote the time and thought to advertising that he should. The majority judge that an announcement with prices and illustrations once a week or twice a month covers everything.

This is not sufficient. Your newspaper advertising, particularly, should be carefully studied; should be planned ahead and after discussion or thought; decided upon, and then carried out, rain or shine. Learn from the newspapers.

Don't crowd your 'ads.' White space is essential in everything, so surely in advertising. You must have some back ground, some horizon to bring out the subject.

Style and quality should be the keynote, whether it's furniture or millinery, house furnishings or footwear, wearing apparel or automobiles. Yes, I want to be emphatic on this point; we should have style and quality first and price last.

COLLEGIAN SWEEPS STREET, DODGES JAIL

DENVER, Feb. 13.—Charles A. Durant, who is said to have graduated from the Harvard Medical School and also to have studied at Oxford, began work today as a city street sweeper to support his wife and five children. He had a choice of going to Jail.

Miss Hazel Walling Cook, seventeen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Cook of Asbury Park, N. J., now a student at the Notre Dame Academy, Lowell, will represent the State of New Jersey at the social functions in Washington, preceding and subsequent to the inaugural ceremonies.

Her selection was made by the Southern League of the Women's Wilson and Marshall organizations of America, which has charge of all social events in connection with the inaugural.

The events include receptions, parties, luncheons and balls, and Miss Cook will attend and assist the general committee with a number of maids and debutantes selected for this high honor—each State having its representative.

Miss Cook is a beautiful brunette, tall, charming and graceful in manner. For three years she was tutored at a private school in New York.

THREE THOUSAND BAY STATE 'MOOSE' TO HOLD BIG DINNER

"Bull Moosers" of Massachusetts on Washington's birthday will gather in the South Armory and emphasize the answer they have already made to Chairman Hilfield of the Republican State Committee, that there will be no coalition of the Progressives with the Republicans in Massachusetts February 22. It is expected that 3,000 Progressives will sit down to dinner in the Armory.

Special trains will be run to Boston from all over Massachusetts and a novelty in political dinners will be the presence of hundreds of women.

Among the speakers will be Henry Allen of Kansas; Mary Antin of New York; ex-Speaker Joseph Walker, ex-Representative Norman H. White, Stewart Anderson of Springfield, and the nominees for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor on the State ticket—Charles S. Bird of Walpole and Daniel Casgrove of Lowell.

MORSE, EVANGELIST MILL OWNER, DIES

PUTNAM, Ct., Feb. 13.—George M. Morse, aged eighty-two, one of the oldest cotton manufacturers of New England, head of the Morse, Nightingale and Newbury mills, died at his home here today after a short illness with pneumonia. He was president of the National Society for the promotion of Christian Holiness, founder and president of the Douglas Camp meeting association of which he was president, and very active as an evangelist throughout the New England and Middle States.

50,000 TO MARCH AT THE INAUGURAL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Members of the inaugural committee are beginning to show signs of nervousness over the extent of the problem presented by the unexpected growth of the procession of March 4, which promises to be the longest inaugural parade that has ever passed down Pennsylvania avenue. Although almost a month off, requests for places for 50,000 men in the line already have been received.

HERE'S MILLION DOLLARS; WHERE IS MR. WATSON?

James T. Bustin, of James T. Bustin & Sons, dealers in wall paper, paints etc., in the square at Watertown, trudged into Boston today looking for some news of Archibald (sometimes called Hugh) Watson.

All that Mr. Bustin wants of Mr. Watson is to place Mr. Watson in immediate touch with $1,000,000. The money is in a bank in Cuba.

Watson was formerly of St. John, N. B. If he is still alive he is presumed to be an octogenarian.

So far as Mr. Bustin knows the million dollars is a regular million and the bank in Cuba is a regular bank. Said the Watertown man:

All my information comes in a letter from relatives in St. John; and all that they know, in their turn, is that a Cuban bank is advertising up there for information concerning one Hugh Watson, who seems to have disappeared from the face of the earth, but who has a fortune on deposit down there that now amounts to $1,000,000.

The Watson family of St. John, or more properly of Long Reach, a little above St. John, were relatives of ours. Many years ago one of these Watsons (Archibald) disappeared. That was some years prior to the Civil War.

When Archibald went away he was seventeen. Eight years later he came back well dressed and apparently well fixed. After a visit of several weeks he dropped out of sight again. Just before the Civil War he wrote to St. John from Indiana, announcing that he had married.

From that day to this nobody related to him has ever heard from Archibald Watson.

One of his sisters had married a man whose first name was Hugh. 'Arch' always liked the name. It is presumed that, here in the States, he took it for his own.

In any event a Cuban bank is advertising in St. John for news of Hugh Watson, who went away from Cuba thirteen years ago, leaving $1,000,000 in the bank, and as our Watsons seem to have been the only Watsons up that way, my St. John relatives think the missing Archibald may have developed into the missing 'Hugh.'

They have written to me asking if I will inquire in and around Bonnd, and I know no better way than to advertise in the Boston AMERICAN.

The Bustin advertisement will be found in the classified advertising columns of this newspaper.

Is Your Name Watson?

If your name is Watson, and if your father or your grandfather was Hugh Watson, and if the man once peculiarly engaged in Cuba, it might be well to read Mr. Bustin's advertisement and get in touch with the bank in Cuba.

In fact, Watson, the AMERICAN'S classified ads may today be worth a million dollars to you.

They are worth a lot of money every day to the observant reader.

FORTUNE IN PEARLS FOUND IN STREET

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Under a guard at police headquarters today is a small, flat, tan-colored leather casket, containing a fortune in pearl jewelry, and detectives are seeking its owner. It was picked up yesterday in the middle of a street in the fashionable section of the capital by W. B. Dixon, driver of a delivery wagon. The collection included two bracelets, several pins and brooches, a number of rings and a pearl chain. More than 100 pearls form the settings. The inside of the casket is set with turquoises. There is no clew to the owner.

Has Napoleon's Ghost Been Located at Last?

The oft repeated story that the living, speaking ghost of Bonaparte haunts the Villa San Martino di Lina gains credence with the announcement that Emperor William will buy the property just for the sake of talking with the great conqueror's spirit. Exclusively

ON $12 A WEEK COLEMAN PAID CHAUFFEUR $15

John J. McHugh and Wilson W. Lockhart testified before the Suffolk County Grand Jury, today, that in hearing the testimony in the investigation of William J. (Big Bill) Kelliher's reputed relationship with the operation of the Grand Jury evidence given by George W. Coleman before he, Kelliher, was indicted by the Federal Grand Jury.

McHugh is the brother of Mrs. Annie Kelliher, the wife of Big Bill, who is serving an eighteen-year sentence at the State prison in Charlestown.

McHugh said he had deposited the money with the bonding company for "Big Bill's" bail, at the request of his sister. He also stated that he tried to save all that he could from the wreck, as that his sister and her children might have some thing on which to live.

Lockhart, who was a chauffeur for Coleman and was paid $15 a week for his services when Coleman received but $12 a week from the bank, was the second witness.

He said he knew Coleman and Kelliher and exhibited he met Kelliher at the Back Bay station when Kelliher was starting for New York on his trips for the bank. He also saw him at the Hotel Lenox. Lockhart stated that he made but one trip to New York with Coleman in attending there. He waited at a meeting place for Coleman's return from the gubernatorial joint.

Joel Dodge, a member of the Grand Jury who heard the testimony of Coleman, was summoned today by the Grand Jury, but did not testify. He is the father-in-law of John Marshall, who was arrested in Philadelphia as having been connected with the "Murphy I. Walsh-"Big Bill" Kelliher gang.

The Grand Jury will deliberate this afternoon. Their findings will be reported to District Attorney Pelletier and the court.

$300,000 FIRE IN HEART OF CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—One building was in ruins, two others were partly destroyed with a total loss of $300,000 and the guests of half a dozen hotels were driven out in their night clothes into zero weather by a fire in the centre of the city early today. The plant of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company, No. 322 South Wabash avenue, manufacturers of billiard tables, was a total loss.

C. W. LEVI IS URGED FOR OTIS' POSITION

Bank Commissioner Thorndike has recommended to the Governor's Council the appointment of Charles W. Levi as deputy bank commissioner to succeed J. O. AMERICANS NEVER WILL TAKE TIME TO REST ENOUGH

"I am just feeling run-down. No, it's not enough to see a doctor about. I just need a rest, that's all. I would take one, but I am too busy just now!"

"Such words as these are spoken hundreds of times in Boston every day. Competition is so great that everyone has to keep their nose close to the grindstone in order to stay well to the front in the rush for existence," stated John Beazley Webb, the London expert.

"These people fail to understand that every time their mind and body crave a rest, and it is denied them, they are bringing on Nervous Debility.

"But since these people refuse to take time for rest, this vacation has had to be brought to them. Tona Vita, which may be obtained in any of the leading Drug Stores in Boston, contains all the health giving properties of rest and nature. It has worked wonders for people who have constantly felt tired and depressed, who would be unable to get proper benefits out of a night's rest, who lacked vitality and ambition and to whom a smile on their faces and a joy in their hearts."

SUFFRAGIST ARMY ON 'HIKE' THINNED TO 14

METUCHEN, N. J., Feb. 13.—"All ready, girls! Well, then, let's start. Forward!"

Clear and crisp rang the order of General Rosalie Gardiner Jones, commander-in-chief of the pilgrim suffragists, today, calling her little army for the second day's march on the way from New York to Washington. But did the girls forward? Nay, not at once. They first poked their heads outside into the zero weather.

"It's quite cold, General, quite cold," they remarked.

"But, girls, we mustn't let cold or anything else stop us. We are fighting for the cause and we must suffer and endure. Forward, girls; forward march!"

With stiffened limbs, but still unbluntered footsies the little army, reduced from 18 to 14, shivered into line and swung toward the national capital across zero wind.

Progress Is Slow.

The progress for the first few miles today toward New Brunswick, the noonday stop, was painfully slow and not even the cheering of Georgia Wood, Jr., of Albany could eradicate the lumps.

The gaiety and high spirits that characterized the "hike" previously were missing today. Walking was a painful effort and it was sheer will power and their love for the cause that carried the pilgrims along over the frozen country roads. The little general, realizing that today was a crucial test for the pilgrimage, was here, there and everywhere, encouraging and cheering.

"The second day is always the worst, girls," she told her subordinates. "You'll get over your stiffness and soreness by tomorrow, and this cold weather won't last. Cheer up, girls, be brave, it's for the cause! Let's show that nothing can stop us."

Five Desertions.

Despite the pleadings of the general there were desertions before the parade started today. Five of those who tramped from Newark here found today that they were unable to longer endure the hardships.

Those who were in line today, the pilgrimage moved today were: General Rosalie Jones, Colonel Ida Craft, Surgeon-general Lavinia Dock, Mrs. Charles Hawes, Miss Minerva Crowell, Miss John E. Boldt, Miss Johanna Meyer, Mrs. George Wood, Miss Martha Kelleher, Mrs. Alexander Baird, Miss Morgan, Percy Passmore, the flag-bearer; George Wood, Jr., the bugler, and Kranz J. Reeves of Philadelphia, "who sore on flips and a sort of "Sorry I came" expression. Tonight's stop will be made in Princeton.

TO CREATE INTEREST FOR HARVARD IN THE ARGENTINE REPUBLIC

Harvard has begun active measures to stimulate interest in its advantages throughout the Argentine Republic by the establishment of eight free scholarships at Harvard by the minister to the United States from Argentine, and by the announcement by President Lowell of a scholarship of one hundred dollars to be paid to each student from Argentine.

The relations of the Harvard archaeologists and of the Harvard astronomical authorities, each of whom have long carried on in Argentine, have been exceedingly friendly and the interest in times past, and it is commonly believed that the new measures are being taken to stimulate this friendship. Astral observatories are being established in some of the Argentine hills, to keep meteorological records as well as to make astronomical investigations, and the establishment of these is thought to be the reason.

SALEM NURSE TAKES LIFE BY INHALING GAS

Miss Hattie M. Allen of Salem, a nurse, was found dead today, a suicide by gas, in a room she had hired last night at Mrs. Annie Taylor's boarding house, No. 115 School street, Brookline.

Miss Allen, who was forty-three years old, had plugged the door and window cracks with paper and cotton batting. She fitted one end of a rubber tube to a tin funnel, with the other end connected with a wall jet.

Turning on the gas, she lay down on the bed, held the funnel over her mouth and inhaled the gas until she became unconscious, and death followed.

The body was found at 9 o'clock by Policeman Kelliher and Moreland of the Brookline police, who were sent to the house when Mrs. Peterson, rooming on the floor below the nurse's room, came to the police station with word that something was wrong in the nurse's room.

The patrolmen found the door locked, forced an entrance and discovered the suicide. Medical Examiner Harry M. Cutts was notified.

Miss Allen left no written explanation of her reason for her act. But little is known of her.

MOTHER IN HER BED IS SLAIN BY BRAINTREE MAN

Mrs. Jennie Hobart of Braintree, mother of six children and wife of George Hobart, night watchman at Braintree depot, was shot dead in bed today by her sixty-year-old brother-in-law, Myron Hobart, who, then went upstairs to his own apartments and killed himself.

Myron Hobart was driven to this murder and suicide, it is thought, by a belief, which had preyed upon his mind, that it was his duty to maintain the family honor.

Myron Hobart had heard gossip about his brother's wife and a Braintree man. It really became a mania with him. George Hobart, the husband, who discovered the tragedy, said later today: "My brother had objected to this man."

George Hobart spoke as though he knew what was in his brother's mind, but not as though he thought it at all justified.

Myron Hobart evidently shot his sister-in-law deliberately, as she lay asleep in bed, with her six-year-old daughter Marie by her side.

Girl Tells of Shooting.

Marie gave a pitiful little account of what she knew of the shooting. She said, between sobs:

"I was woke up by a kind of flash in mamma's face which made a noise. It was dark and I couldn't see, but I saw a light go away after the flash.

From Marie's little story the shooting took place sometime before dawn. Just what Marie meant by saying: "I saw a light go away after the flash," is not known.

The Hobart home is at Washington and School streets, Braintree. Mrs. Hobart was forty-three years old. Her husband goes to work at 6 p. m. and is on duty until 6 a. m. He arrives home about 6:05 every morning.

The Hobart children are: Chester, nineteen; Fred, sixteen; Dolly, fifteen; Lester, ten; Marie, six, and Frank, five. Marie slept with her mother. Chester and Frank slept in an adjoining room. The other three children slept in a third bedroom. There are five rooms in the downstairs apartment, where the family lived.

Myron Hobart, the sixty-year-old brother, had his living rooms. His sister-in-law did his cooking for him. He was a widower and a retired engineer.

Husband Finds Body.

George Hobart came home at 6:05 a. m. today, knocked, received no answer, but could hear Marie crying: "Mamma, papa's here."

Hobart unlocked the kitchen door, entered his wife's room and found her dead in bed, a bullet hole over her right ear. The bedding blood-stained and little Marie trying to arouse the slain woman. The night clothes of mother and child were impressed with blood and the mother's face was powder-stained.

The husband, terrified, ran across the street to Ralph McLaughlin's, who came over. McLaughlin made a hurried search of the downstairs rooms. He found the other five children in their beds, just awakening. The cries of little Marie for her mother to wake up had begun to arouse them. But they had heard no shots.

ELEVATED NOT DOING ITS DUTY, NILAND SAYS

Thomas A. Niland of East Boston, who has presented a bill to the Legislature calling for an investigation of the Boston Elevated, has been asked by Henry Howard, chairman of the Public Utilities Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, to state his reasons why the Legislature should take such action. Mr. Niland's reply is brief but to Mr. Howard follows:

Replying to the inquiry in your letter of the seventh instant as to my reasons for presenting House Bill 1564, I will state that I am one of a multitude who are dissatisfied with the manner in which this corporation is operating its cars. I believe that we should receive better accommodations in return for the fares paid in. I cannot believe that it is necessary for the Boston Elevated Railway to jam as many as 120 people, and sometimes as many as 140, into a car built to seat 44.

Toilers Herded on Cars.

This herding of unfortunate human beings in transportation to and from their homes is disgraceful, indecent, absolutely intolerable and must be ended. The pathetic part of the matter is that those who are the chief sufferers at the hands of the company are those whose hours of toil are the longest. The banker, broker and members of the more fortunate classes, who have hours at 9 in the morning and return at an early hour in the afternoon, escape the attendant discomfort and pain of poor travelers during rush hours and are perhaps satisfied with the way they are carried to and from the city.

But the overworked laborer and the deficate shop girl, who has been on her feet for eight hours, have a just cause for complaint. If I have failed to impress you with the picture which I have but feebly drawn, I know you will agree with me if you will stand at the Court street, Devonshire street or Atlantic avenue stations of the East Boston tunnel some evening between 5 and 7.

Better Service is Required.

I believe that if this legislature authorizes this investigation it will show this corporation is not doing its duty by the public and that it can be compelled to furnish better service to its suffering patrons, in which case will strive to ascertain whether it shall be required to use the profits discovered by me in an investigation for any improvements or its payment for so increase in its dividends, the treasury of the Commonwealth under the company's charter sharing in the increase.

I thank you for having written me and for the interest you have shown in my bill. I hope for your personal assistance and for that which the organization you represent is capable of giving in the furtherance of a much needed act of legislation.

PEABODY MOTHER TRIES TO KILL SELF

PEABODY, Feb. 13.—Mrs. Daniel Waldman, twenty-five, of No. 38 English street, the mother of a two-months-old infant, attempted suicide today by placing a gas tube in her mouth. Her body fell to the floor and the noise awakened her husband. He notified the police and Dr. Foss. She was quickly resuscitated. She offered no explanation.

To Renew Complexion Without Cosmetics
(From the Dermatologist.)
If the scientific use of cosmetics only lowers the complexion by artificiality of make upon others, she would quickly seek means of obtaining a natural complexion. Let her acquire the medicated wax habit, discarding make-ups entirely, and she will soon have the kind of complexion that women envy and men admire. It's so easy to get an ounce of mercolized wax at any drug store, the night the old cream and wash it off mornings. And the results are so remarkable; the dead cuticle is shed in peels off, in almost invisible flake particles, in such a way as to show a brand new complexion clear, velvety-soft, of girlish color and texture. The treatment is so harmless and delightful, so velvety effective. The wonder is that every woman doesn't use it. Mercolized wax can be obtained, powdered, hooded or pimpled, has not already adopted it.
Full directions for using mercolized wax and massage creams which may be skin will more and more be used in this treatment are in every package. powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel, bathe face twice daily. Every trace will disappear.

TWICE ROBBED AT GUN POINT IN HIS STORE

The police are looking today for the young bandit who twice within a few minutes held up Solomon Feldman at the point of a revolver in his drug store at No. 310 Harrison avenue and then left him bound and gagged in his back room, while he escaped with $30 in cash and two checks totalling $27.

Feldman told his story to the police today. He was alone in his store when a young man entered and asked for a box of cigarettes. As he made change the man whipped out a revolver and said, "I want all the money you have in the store, and I want it quick."

The storekeeper handed over everything in the cash register, $35. The robber turned, but as he neared the door, again drew the revolver. Levelling it at Feldman's head, he said, "I don't think you gave me all the money you have. Now you walk into the back room and we'll see what else you have."

The robber then bound Feldman and searched his pockets, getting $4 more and the checks.

J. Cruso, who keeps a meat shop on Seneca street, and who saw the robber dash out of the store, went to investigate. He heard moans and found Feldman nearly exhausted from his exertions to free himself.

EXPOSE CHILD SLAVERY TO NEW YORK ASEMBLY

ALBANY, Feb. 13.—A startling expose of how children of tender years slave for hours in canning sheds, their blistered fingers wrapped in rags; how they labor in tenements making toys, flowers and plumes, and how women toil excessively, sometimes for mere pittances, in industrial establishments in this State, is described vividly in the report of the New York State Factory Investigating Commission, which has been submitted to the Legislature.

The report says that canners in the rural districts have never obeyed the State child-labor law, "because they never have to." They have contended that their "sheds," in which the children snip beans and husk corn, are not "factories," and that under certain conditions the employment of children less than fourteen years of age in these "sheds" is legal.

The "employment of mere babies," the commission holds, has been the result, and it adds that of 1250 children found at work in thirty-three sheds the oldest was fourteen years old, and the youngest was three.

Of women workers the report says:

No woman can work from sixteen to twenty-one and a half hours a day for weeks, in some cases even months, without permanent injury to her health. Yet women are doing just this thing in the up-State canneries, in binderies and other factories, and in the shops during the six weeks' Christmas rush. In the large canneries the work keeps up pretty regularly during a season of four or five months. A week of 83.04—in one case 119¾—working hours is not followed by a week of comparative rest, but by another almost as bad. And the pay averages ten cents an hour.

Besides these subjects, the report also considers fire problems, dangerous trades and ventilation and sanitation, and recommends as the first that the number of workers in any factory building be limited to the capacity of the stairways.

The commission chiefly recommends that with a reorganization of the labor department there be created an industrial board, and that this board be vested with the power, under broad statues, to make regulations which shall have the force of a law and make rules to fit each and every industry.

CASSIDY SEES AID TO ELLIS BILL IN WORK OF NEW YORK CONFERENCE

The recent conference of delegates appointed by the Governors of the Eastern and Middle States, called by the New York Milk Committee to consider improvement in State laws for the control of the milk industry and for the suppression of bovine tuberculosis, deserved a large place in the news of the last week, according to Cassidy. He today discusses some of the resolutions adopted by that conference in their relation to milk laws now before the Legislature.

By HARRY P. CASSIDY.

Through the courtesy of P. M. Harwood of the Massachusetts State Dairy Bureau, a copy has been sent to me of the resolutions adopted by the recent milk conference in New York.

Mr. Harwood was one of the Massachusetts delegates to that conference. The meeting was of especial interest to Massachusetts because of the various milk laws now before the Legislature, concerning which there have been long discussions at hearings before legislative committees here.

Tuesday, the hearings on the Ellis Milk Bill closed. Prominent scientists and sanitary experts appeared to support it. It is backed by the Milk Consumers' Association. Myron E. Pierce, counsel for that association, furnished me with a detailed statement on the conference, which he attended, and to which I gave publicity two days ago.

The resolutions printed below are some of those adopted at that conference.

Bay State Delegates.

The conference was held in the Academy of Medicine, No. 17 West 43rd street, New York, February 5 and 6. It was attended by about twenty official delegates appointed by the Governors of the various States, and by many others interested in the topics discussed. Charles W. Wood, president of the Massachusetts Cattle Owners' Association, Dr. Mark W. Richardson of the State Board of Health and Mr. Harwood were the Massachusetts delegates.

It has been said that Massachusetts must co-operate with her sister States in her milk laws, for the reason that, as I remember it, only some 1,500 out of 7,000 dairies supplying Boston are in Massachusetts. One of the things the Ellis Bill aims to do is to regulate milk from other States. As a general principle, I believe in co-operation with other States can be established, that is preferable to an attempt to send Massachusetts inspectors into those other States in an attempt to force dairies there to conform to certain conditions.

"But in any event the resolutions adopted by this New York conference deserve consideration by the committees in charge of the Ellis Bill, and by the public.

The conference resolved:

"That the inspection of dairy farms should be under the supervision of the State authorities."

The Weight of Authority.

That doctrine, I believe, is correct. I believe that the State government is better able to enforce any law than the town health officer —just as the federal government is better enforcing its pure food law than is the average State official. As a general principle, it is undoubtedly true that the more authority a man represents the greater weight his words will have with the law violator. An interesting example may be cited of this:

In Oklahoma City, in the Summer of 1908, there was a Democratic Mayor. That is, no liquor was allowed to be sold for drink. Soon liquor was sold, however. But although the local authorities could not appear to arrest the offenders, the United States issued federal liquor licenses sold in that city.

That is, the alleged liquor sellers were not afraid to buck the local authorities and with money down the alleys or around the corner. But they did not dare violate the federal laws.

The federal government commands more respect than the State governments. In the same way, the State governments, command more respect than the local town government.

Inspection of Cattle.

The conference further resolved:

That the State Department of Agriculture shall perform the following work: Veterinary inspection of dairy cattle, including physical examination and tuberculin tests, sanitary inspection of dairy barns and premises, water supply, drainage systems, etc.

That the following work be performed by the State Department of Health: Medical inspection of dairy employes and milk handlers at creamery and shipping stations; sanitary inspection of human excreta, water supply, drainage systems, milk houses, shipping stations, factories, etc., and laboratory tests of milk.

This division of power is, I believe, unwise. I believe either the one department or the other should control. The two departments in that resolution conflict, in that both have supervision of "drainage systems," for instance, and I believe in practice they would conflict in other matters also.

There should be one authority, with underlings, deriving their authority from its central head. The division of authority is unwise.

The conference also resolved:

Control of Milk Supply.

"That the control of the local milk supply by municipal and town boards of health should include the following duties: Issuance and revocation of licenses of local distributors; cancellation and inhibiting of milk inspection by local inspectors of all places where milk is received, handled and sold; laboratory tests to determine the efficiency of pasteurizing machines, etc."

The resolution urges, in short, that wide powers be reserved to the local town or city authorities.

I believe this principle is correct, with this suggestion:

The local authorities should derive their power—not from the town or city government, but from the State Board of Health. They should be subject to direction from the State board, and should have the power of the State board behind them in the way the functions of the local authorities would be conserved, even at the same time their power and their efficiency could be vastly increased.

The conference held:

"That all animals destroyed by the State should be paid for."

I believe that is the only fair system to be followed. The destruction of tuberculous cattle is a public liability hardship on the dairyman—large or small. It is, however, also a voluntary necessary to the safety of the whole public.

Recompense the Farmer.

The farmer should be recompensed for his animals, while the public health is at the same time conserved. It should be remembered throughout this milk controversy, that the average farmer is trying to produce a clean product. This fact cannot be too heavily emphasized. The rare exceptions are apt to be small dairymen who are losing money, have no extensive trade, and deserve to be put out of business. But men that have built up a good milk business, on honest and sanitary methods, deserve consideration from the State and the public.

It has been said at the legislative hearings that the farmer should have a higher price for his milk than he is now getting. I believe that is right. Milk, considered as food, is one of the cheap at ten cents a quart—if you get pure milk. And pure milk means your milk is today the surest way to get pure milk.

The conference resolved:

Need of Co-operation.

"That as several States empower those having supervision of the milk supply to co-operate with each other in reference to the control of interstate shipments of milk."

This provision would do great good. If made effective. The Ellis bill seeks to effect protection from out-of-State milk. If our sister States, our neighbors, were properly safeguarding their own output, a big extra expense would be lifted from Massachusetts shoulders.

The recommendations of this conference are of great educative value, and should be considered by the legislative committee considering new milk laws.

CHELSEA "BABES IN WOOD" HOME, COLD AND HALF-STARVED

Nine-year-old John Plands and his three-year-old sister Julia, at 4 Hawthorne street, Chelsea, who disappeared on their way to school Tuesday morning, are back at their home today, after having wandered like two modern babes in the wood" through Chelsea streets for more than a day and a half. During that time they had no food, and when found were almost bitten and nearly starved. They spent a night in a shanty on Bellingham hill, Chelsea, near the Everett line.

The children told their parents they had "played hookey." They were afraid they would be punished, and decided to stay out all night. Meanwhile their father and the police were hunting in vain for them.

HARVARD SECURES CAMEL WHICH DIED ON TREMONT STREET

Officials of the natural history department of Harvard have secured possession of the body of Kisi Ayboo, the versatile camel which had been leading a life on the stage and which died on Tremont street, probably from the effects of the extreme cold.

The change from Sahara to Boston climate was too much for the animal. The skin will be stuffed and placed in the exhibition rooms at Harvard.

BRANDEIS AND LEWIS TALK AT SHAW HOUSE

At a meeting held at Robert Gould Shaw house, No. 6 Hammond street, an organization was formed to devise ways and means to find employment for colored boys and girls. At this conference Louis D. Brandeis, Robert A. Woods of South End House, Rev. Dr. Francis H. Rowley, Rev. C. E. Park, William H. Lewis, assistant Attorney-General of the United States, William C. Matthews, George W. Coleman and Walt Curry were the principal speakers.

Mrs. Nina Walker 'Supposes She Must Fight Divorce Plea'

NEWPORT, R. I., Feb. 13.—Mrs. Nina Walker, sued for divorce by her husband, James Wilson Grimes Walker, formerly of the United States Navy, despite the fact she maintains she obtained a divorce from him two years ago, admitted today that she had been served with papers in the new action. When seen at her mother's residence, K street and Rhode Island avenue, Mrs. Walker said:

I did not even read the papers served upon me by Deputy Sheriff De Blois, but took them to my counsel, William P. Sheffield. I have been expecting something to happen, but hardly looked to be served with a libel for divorce. I understand that my husband is living in Brownville, near Paris, Me., where he has gone into farming.

I suppose I shall have to go to Maine when the case comes up. As far as I know, Mr. Walker has not seen his children since the time that I obtained my divorce from him two years ago.

FOOD EXPOSED TO DUST MUST BE COVERED

The first fruits of the campaign for pure and honest food, which was opened when Harry P. Cassidy began his series of remarkable food articles in the AMERICAN, came in the approval by the State Board of Health of a regulation proposed by the city health commissioners, providing for covering all foodstuffs exposed for sale outside buildings, to protect them from dust.

The city health commissioners had been figuring for this or a similar regulation for two years. They had been unable to secure the approval of the State board. The Women's Municipal League urged that such a regulation be passed, and other bodies followed their example.

Monday, January 6, Cassidy, in his daily article, told of a trip through the market districts, and how he found meat and vegetables exposed to the dust that settled thick over everything.

Tuesday or Wednesday of that week a hearing was given on the proposed regulation, and it was warmly supported. It was directly in line with the reforms Cassidy had urged. It was sent to the State Board of Health for approval. There, in former years, it has died.

January 11, Cassidy wrote another article, commending the regulation advanced by the city commissioners, and urging its approval by the State Board of Health. Dr. Mullowney of the Health Commission-ership lauded the regulation.

Yesterday the regulation was approved by the State board.

The regulations provide in substance that meats, nuts, fruit or other foodstuffs exposed for sale outside of buildings shall be covered to protect them from dust. The measure includes also provisions regulating the sanitary conditions under which such foodstuffs are sold. Its sections will be discussed more fully in Cassidy's articles later this week.

BOSTON WILL SEE MAUDE ADAMS IN OPEN AIR PLAY

Charles Frohman is in Boston making plans for a series of open-air performances to be given by Miss Maude Adams. These will be of the same general character and on the same general scale as Miss Adams' "Joan of Arc" production at the Harvard Stadium two years ago.

Mr. Frohman's plan is to give one performance in Boston—the first of the kind; one in New York, one in Philadelphia and one in Chicago. He expects to settle all the details of the scheme while he is in Boston.

In connection with Mr. Frohman's visit it is announced that the Hollis Street Theatre in the future will be devoted to musical plays as well as to serious drama. Just as at the Colonial. One of the most important musical productions Mr. Frohman will make next year will require the reconstruction of the Hollis Street Theatre stage.

At last here is an aspirant for honors in the AMERICAN Venus contest who is both able and willing to tell us how it all happened. Miss Redmonda Landor, Upham's Corner, is an interesting exception to this rule. Miss Landor writes:

There will be no special offer of any kind during the remainder of the contest.

Without question there are hundreds of possible subscriptions in the immediate territory and neighborhood of every candidate. GET OUT AND GET THEM IN THE NEXT TWO WEEKS.

"NO USE TO BE SCRAWNY," SAYS BEAUTY EXPERT

By Proper Treatment the Figure Can Be Quickly Developed and Rounded

"Scrawniness and angular lines among women are marks of carelessness," writes a famous expert on beauty in Toilet and Hygiene. "For every woman can have a delightful figure with little effort.

"A tissue energizer can be quickly and cheaply prepared at home by dissolving one and one-half cupfuls of sugar in a pint of water, then stirring in an ounce of gallol; and when two teaspoonfuls are taken before meals, hollows soon round out, angular lines vanish and the form assumes its true symmetry and plumpness without adding materially to the weight."—Advertisement.

GRAY, FADED HAIR, OR BEAUTIFUL DARK, ATTRACTIVE---CHOOSE, MADAM!

Says Sage Tea Mixed with Sulphur Restores Natural Color and Lustre.

Gray, faded hair turned beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night, is a reality, if you'll take the trouble to mix sage tea and sulphur, but what's the use, you get a large bottle of the ready-to-use tonic, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" at drug stores here for about 50 cents. Millions of bottles of "Wyeth's" are sold annually, says a well-known druggist, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

You must dampen a sponge or soft brush with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and lifeless have a surprise awaiting them, because after just one application the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful—all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

This is the age of youth, gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with the Sage and Sulphur tonight and you'll be amazed at your youthful appearance and the real beauty and healthy condition of your hair within a few days. Inquiry at drug stores here shows that they all sell lots of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" and the folks using it are enthusiastic.

BIG WAVERLY FIRE CAUSES $50,000 LOSS

Fire, which early today caused $10,000 damage to a one-story block, containing eight stores, at Beach street and Trotlow road, Waverly square, broke out afresh several hours later, threatened a three-tenement house adjoining, and caused a total damage estimated at $50,000.

Windows.

The firemen carried the hose up into the tenement and fought the fire from the

Two alarms were sounded and the Watertown and Waltham departments were summoned to assist the Belmont firemen.

The block is owned by J. V. McCarthy, a real estate agent. The stores were those of Miss Harriet A. McCarthy, millinery; Julius Freed, barber; Peter M. Anastas, fruit and confectionery; C. H. Hinckley & Co., dry goods; Anastas & Cokinos, grocery; John M. Nystrom, bakery; Samuel Carl, tailor, and Harry Slater, boots and shoes.

Albert G. Vichnow, who lives on the second floor tenement, was aroused early by the barking of his dog. He smelled smoke, aroused his wife and four children, and then ran with them to the street. Patrolman J. Henry Lead of the Belmont police, from a passing car, saw flames shooting from the windows. Vichnow had aroused John Argy, a neighbor, and the three entered the building, which was then all ablaze. They sent in an alarm. Until the firemen arrived they fought the blaze themselves.

Vichnow's family and William Grade and his wife, who lives in the same house, were forced to flee for their lives as the flames beat against the side of the tenement. The other tenements was unoccupied.

The blaze started in the basement of the grocery store. It broke out the second time in the millinery store.

SPLENDID CAST AT OPERA GIVES 'DON GIOVANNI'

Madame Schumann-Heink appeared as the Witch in "Hansel and Gretel" at a special performance of the fairy opera yesterday afternoon. The balconies were completely filled, and there was a goodly company in the orchestra when the curtain rose, despite the fact that Wednesday afternoon is not usually an opera time.

The part of the Witch is after all a small one, one of the smallest of contralto roles, and if one had never heard Schumann-Heink he would hesitate to judge her from her work in such a part. Fortunately it was not necessary. The lady who delights to be called "mother," according to her own press agent, moved about at a lively pace and rode gracefully enough on her broomstick. Her one aria was sung with rich tone and excellent expression, and her early exit into the fiery furnace was regretted.

Miss Bernice Fisher as Gretel and Miss Jeska Swarta as Hansel repeated their previous excellent interpretations. William Hinshaw was the Father. Caple conducted.

The continued illness of Vanni Marcoux brought Ramon Blanchart to the fore as Don Giovanni last night. Considering the brief notice that was given the baritone and the fact that he has done little singing in Boston this season, his Giovanni was remarkably good and was much appreciated.

Alice Nielsen, Emmy Destinn, John McCormack, Allen Hinckley and Pasquale Amato made up the splendid cast. The opera, under the direction of Weingartner, had a brilliant presentation.

Salem Cadet Band Concert.

The celebrated Salem Cadet Band is to be heard in concert in Tremont Temple on Saturday evening. It is several years since this popular organization has offered a concert program in this city, and Jean Missud has prepared his program for Saturday night with great care. It will include several of the most popular operatic gems, and most of the popular songs of the day.

Madame Wilhelmina Wright Cairert, the soprano soloist who has appeared with the Handel and Haydn and other famous organizations, has also arranged her numbers to please both the popular and the classic taste. She will sing the famous aria from "Aida," "Riborna Vinolica," and a group of three songs, "Lass with the Delicate Air," "Coaling Thro' the Rye" and "The Swallows."

Nelson Bernier, the cornetist, will be heard in solos. The full program includes the "Miserere" from "Trovatore," "William Tell" overture, selections from "Tales of Hoffmann," "The Quaker Girl," "Row, Row, Row," "When the Midnight Choo, Choo," "Stars and Stripes Forever" of Sousa and numerous other popular and operatic gems.

Italian Opera Concert.

The Italian opera concert tonight in Tremont Temple is remarkable both for the high character of the singers and the popular features of the program.

It is seldom there is a chance to hear such singers as Carmen Melis, the brilliant dramatic soprano of the Boston Opera, whose success in the Boston Opera company has been extraordinary, at popular prices. With her will be heard Elvira Leveroni, the Boston contralto, who is now a member of the Covent Garden, Roman and Boston Opera companies, Umberto Sacchetti, the brilliant Italian tenor, and Rodolfo Fornari, the efficient baritone. All of these artists are from the Boston Opera company.

The program will be opened by the famous "Figaro" song from "The Barber of Seville," by Mr. Fornari. Mlle. Leveroni will sing the celebrated "Habanera" from "Carmen." Madame Melis will sing the popular Italian songs "Funicull Funicula" and "O, Mari." Then will follow a scene from the first act of "La Boheme," commencing with the beautiful tenor aria "Chi Gelida Manina," continuing through the song of "Mimi" and ending with the wonderful duet that concludes the act.

The "Toreador" song from "Carmen" will be sung by Mr. Fornari. Miss Leveroni will sing several Italian songs. Mme. Melis will render the lovely prayer from "Tosca." Mr. Sacchetti will sing the "Donna e Mobile" from "Rigoletto," and the concert will conclude with the entire quartet from "Rigoletto."

Opera House Concert.

Miss Alice van Barentzen, the youthful pianist, and a former Bostonian, has been added to the list of artists who will appear in concert at the Boston Opera House on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 23d. The others will be Mme. Lina Cavalieri and M. Lucien Muratore, the principal tenor of the Paris Opera.

Mme. Jeska Swarta will sing Leig for the first time in the performance of "Cavalleria Rusticana," which will be given in place of "Djamileh," on Friday evening at the Boston Opera House.

The Home Doctor

Remedy for Coughs and Colds

One and one-half ounces Balm of Gilead buds, one pound bruised rock candy, one pint Duffy's pure malt whiskey. (We recommend Duffy's on account of its purity and known medicinal value.) Put all together with occasional stirring until the rock candy is dissolved, then strain. Dose: For adults, one tablespoonful every hour; if the condition is acute, every half hour; for children over ten, a teaspoonful every hour; for children under ten, ten drops every hour until decided relief is felt. These simple ingredients, known to every druggist, can easily be secured and readily mixed by anyone. Dr. George I. Ross, Canton, Mass., says: "This is vastly superior to the stereotype Rock and Rye of commerce and should be called 'Balm of Gilead.'"—Advertisement.

Cavalieri Opens Her Concert Tour Here February 23

Lina Cavalieri, the Italian prima donna, who has just arrived in New York on a transatlantic liner, will come to Boston next Wednesday to prepare for opening her American concert tour here, Sunday, February 23.

With Cavalieri will come Lucien Muratore, the tenor from the Paris Opera House, who is to support her on the tour. Muratore is described as "a tall, handsome man, with pale complexion and expressive eyes." Cavalieri said in New York today:

In Boston I shall give my opening concert with Mr. Muratore at the Opera House, February 23. Henry Russell has invited me to make two or three appearances in opera. But I don't know whether I can spare the time. And I don't greatly care to appear casually. If I could give a series of performances I might be tempted. Cavalieri made only one allusion to her shattered romance involving "Bob" Chanler of New York, who was speaking of New York, saying:

I am an artist. I have come back here on an artistic tour. For twelve months past I have worked hard to prepare myself for this journey. If I had wanted to make money or make talk I could have done so easily. But —well, you know.

MRS. KELLEY ASKS PENSIONS FOR MOTHERS

By SYBIL WARNE.

"Pension mothers."

"Preserve the home life."

"You will then protect the children of this Commonwealth."

Thus Mrs. Marion B. Kelley, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Equal Suffrage Association, defends Mayor Fitzgerald's plan of pensioning Bay State widows.

Mrs. Kelley has watched with interest the working of the mother's compensation law in Colorado and believes that women's suffrage has done much to make that law so serviceable to the State in protecting motherhood.

Motherhood is the greatest asset to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, argues Mrs. Kelley. Her policy is never to separate a mother from her child, but make it possible for that mother to keep her own home and let the State come in and help her. Here are some of her suggestions:

Don't make mothers and their children charitable subjects. Never humiliate a mother.

Keep mothers close to their children and you save the children.

Don't call it a pension for mothers; call it a compensation to mothers.

Make the State under obligations to mothers for their support; not the mothers under obligations to the State.

During an interview with the Mrs. Kelley said:

Motherhood is the greatest asset of the State.

The system of pensioning mothers with small children is an admirable one, provided it is carried on in the spirit that will not humiliate mothers.

There is nothing more valuable to the State than motherhood, and nothing is so essential to the welfare of the State, as homes with a mother's influence.

Uplift to State.

The more real homes you make in the State of this type you lift the State in a condition of moral prosperity.

Here is a young mother with a child, not born in lawful wedlock. Is it right to separate that mother from that child?

To me, it seems a great mistake to take children from their mothers, and put them in institutions. If the mistake in a woman's life has been made, you must look after the welfare of the child and make it possible for that child to become a help instead of hindrance to humanity. So I believe in keeping mother and child together.

The State should aid in this. It should give such help that will endow the mother and child to keep together.

In helping this mother I do not mean that she should be made entirely independent of the help given her, but through her own efforts, and what the State can do, she should be encouraged to keep up her home life.

So it is with widows. Here is a widow left with five children:

It is a wrong to that mother to take those children away from her, and it is a wrong to take that mother away from her children!

They should be kept together. The State should give aid to them together. Every mother is willing to do something to keep her home.

When you destroy a home in Massachusetts—just one solitary home—you destroy an important influence for good.

The mother should be with her children, when they are growing up, instead of leaving them into the care of an orphan asylum. She wants to play with her children. She wants to have some hand in seeking for them, in looking after their clothes. She likes to think that she had a hand in making them look well and dressed.

Don't Impoverish Them.

Yes, by all means, pension the mothers to enable them to keep their homes for their children, but do not impoverish them by so doing, but give them every opportunity to help themselves.

The Mother's Compensation law in Colorado is a better name for this than widows' pensions.

The women in that State, since they have had the suffrage, have shown themselves thoroughly interested in this matter and are making it possible for widows and mothers to continue their home life with their children without interruption.

We pension the soldiers, who have fought for the defence of their country. Very good! What greater defence of the nation's prosperity do we need than the protection of motherhood and home?

We must work along the lines of least resistance. We believe that enabling a mother with her children to keep her home is remedial and preventative. Don't expect a mother to depend upon charity for her subsistence. Don't say that we do not need widows' pensions in the State, because we have systematized charity and charities that are willing to help widows.

This, to my manner of thinking, is radically wrong.

What you do for a mother with her children is to make her feel that the State is under much obligation to her for being a mother—not that she is under obligation to the State.

Mayor Fitzgerald is on the right track.

Take good care of mothers with children. That means the safety of the Commonwealth.

How We Broke the Curse of the Dance Halls.

Mrs. Charles H. Israels, the distinguished humanitarian, describes the successful social experiment which is substituting for vicious dives safe, clean places where lonely girls may find gaiety and companionship without the risk of evil. Exclusively

Mayor Fitzgerald Says:

"I am in favor of the universal pensioning of all widows with children."

"Farmer" William, The Kaiser, Lauds His Rye and Oxen

BERLIN, Feb. 13.—Emperor William is some farmer, according to his own story to the German Agricultural Council here. The Kaiser painted in enthusiastic words his success as a farmer, and told how he is raising a faster breed of oxen which will get home the harvest wagon in quicker time than the kinds now used.

He went into details in regard to the improvements he had made on his estate at Kadinen. The Emperor said:

I intend continuing these experiments on an outlying tract of land from which I have evicted the tenant because he was no good.

The neighboring farmers whose rye had been badly treated saw with astonishment my rye standing with ears erect like the lancers of my Uhlans. When in the Autumn the grain was hauled in the farmers crowded before my barns and fairly indecied each other to get seeds.

The Emperor told of "strong oxen" he is raising by crossing his cattle with zebus.

SHOW P. S. A. SPENT $3,500 MORE THAN G. G. A. IN FIGHT

The Good Government Association spent $3,500 less than the Public School Association, in their respective political campaigns. This was shown in the annual reports just filed with City Clerk Donovan's office.

The heaviest contributor to the Public School Association, was Joseph Lee, who gave $1,000, her sister gave $250 to the Good Government Association. James J. Storrow gave each $250.

Contributions to the Good Government Association amounted to $9,703.05; the expenses were $8,702.26. Six hundred dollars has been set aside to defend the charter against attack.

The Public School Association raised $8,969, and spent $8,955.

WIREMAN HURT BY TWENTY-FOOT FALL

Eric Stenbolm, twenty-eight, of No. 38 Dudley street, Roxbury, employed by the Boston Elevated, fell from the top of a tower wagon at Hanover and Battery streets, twenty feet, early today, and was painfully injured. He was taken to the Relief Hospital suffering from a broken left wrist and injuries to the back and body.

WARNS BANGOR LINE STRIKERS TO SHUN ROAD

BANGOR, Me., Feb. 13.—Intimating that detectives have attempted to destroy property of the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad, in order to cast reflections upon the orderliness of the strikers, P. J. McNamara, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, in a signed statement, says that the union has "enacted the tip to advise the men to keep entirely away from the B. & A. property, as information had been given out that detectives were going to commence their old alleged tactics."

The strikers," says McNamara, "have lived in the community for years, and are law-abiding citizens." None of these, he claims, goes near the property, unless it is to travel as a passenger, on mileage which has been bought and paid for.

Charges of attempted train-wrecking are made by the company, as the result of recent trouble on a stretch of 150 miles of track.

The first trouble occurred, the company alleges, on February 8, when a misplaced switch caused the overturning of a locomotive.

few got any sleep last night and the rest of those was broken by the detonations of the cannonade and the musketry fire. In fact, few persons in Mexico City slept during the night.

While foreigners were flocking into the consulates for protection, noncombatants sat up, rifle in hand, to protect their property from marauding bands.

Vivid Account of the Battle.

At 8 o'clock last night a cannon boomed near the citadel. A few minutes later the whirr of machine guns was heard. This was kept up for half an hour. Then silence settled down again. At ten o'clock another gun boomed from the Alameda district. The cannon had been fired toward the Hipodromo de Santiago in which street fighting had broken out. The projectile struck the office of the Mexican Herald shattering the facade. The federals unlimbered a machine gun and kept it spurting fire for almost an hour.

Between 11 and 12 o'clock, machine guns were in action in several quarters, and bullets were dropping all over the commercial district. At midnight a detachment of federals under a sortie from the palace against the arsenal, the strong hold of Diaz, but were driven back.

News that American bluejackets are being rushed to Mexican waters, and that troops may be moved into the Mexican capital, caused a wave of joy to sweep over the foreign colony today. The foreigners are not concerned in the revolution and do not care which side wins. They only want security in which to carry on their affairs.

Carnage on All Sides.

American men wept from pure patriotic joy when they learned that United States troops may be sent here. The situation in this city today was terrible, with the battle carnage filling the streets in every direction.

Bodies of dead soldiers and dead horses lay partially covered by wreckage in the streets. Heavy damage was done in the vicinity of the Mexican cable office, which was riddled by shells. However, while the missiles were crashing about the building the operators stuck to their posts, risking their lives in the performance of their duty.

At 8:45 this morning a federal battery of five cannon, located two blocks south of the cable office, fired a salvo toward the arsenal. Diaz brought all of his guns into play and shrapnel whistled through the air, crashing into private buildings. One shell entered a private house, where it burst, killing two persons.

Several pedestrians in the street were killed and wounded. Every window in the central part of the city has been smashed by the concussion of the bombardment.

During the night many foreigners, including more than 600 Americans, mostly women and children, were taken out of the capital in automobiles.

To encourage his troops, Diaz told them that they were winning, and that President Madero was getting ready to flee to San Luis Potosi.

Shrapnel fell dangerously near the United States embassy, where U. S. Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson sat at his desk.

Diaz had cautioned the rebel gunners to respect the foreign flags, but in spite of precautions the shells dropped and burst almost upon the flag protected buildings.

Americans Angry at Delay.

The anger of Americans because of the inactivity of the government at Washington has been increased by the killing of Mrs. W. W. Holmes, wife of an employe of Dun's Mercantile Agency, and Mrs. Percy Griffiths, wife of an employe of the street car system. Mrs. Holmes was killed outright and Mrs. Griffith had both legs shot off, living only a few hours.

It is almost impossible to get through the parks and the grounds of the national palace, because of the great number of trees which have been felled by the projectiles.

The siege is set today for a death struggle. Diaz claims to have 8,000 men in his command and expects reinforcements of between 500 and 1,000 today. Madero says he can muster 7,000 loyal troops.

The one purpose of Diaz is to capture the national palace. Today he planned to shoot and storm his way there. He is believed to have a tremendous advantage in armament and ammunition.

Allie Bland, a printer, was shot through the arm. Several other Americans were wounded.

Mrs. Holmes and Mrs. Griffiths were preparing dinner in their kitchen in an apartment building close to the Arsenal, when a shell from the federal lines burst through the walls. Bland was walking along Independencia avenue, when he was struck by a rifle ball, apparently from the Federal lines.

The shells from the heavy rebel guns were well timed, the explosions throwing thousands of bullets into the roofs, effectually clearing, for a time at least, those buildings of the picked men from the Federal troops. Some of the rebel shells and not a few rifle bullets reached the national palace.

Madero Is Confident.

Madero was optimistic today. Throughout the bombardment and the almost continuous rattle of machine guns and rifles the President went about his work in the palace unperturbed.

He took counsel frequently with the Finance Minister, Ernesto Madero. From time to time he was in conversation with General Huerta, the commander-in-chief, regarding the plans of attack. His courage was great, his confidence remarkable.

The bombardment has been the most terrible any city in North America has been subjected to since the adoption of modern high-power cannon.

Among the buildings damaged was that of the Mutual Life Insurance Company over which the British and American flags were flying.

The British Legation was under fire for a time, and several shots struck the National Palace.

Rebel Shots Strike True.

Most of the buildings suffering the greatest damage are owned by Mexicans, in many of which, however, Americans and other foreigners have offices.

WAR BULLETINS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—General Leonard Wood said today the administration would "starve off" Mexican intervention as long as possible.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Feb. 13.—One of the first two United States expeditions to Mexican waters will be embarked from this port, the other from Galveston, Tex.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 13.—The federals renewed the battle here today and soon the bombardment became general.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 13.—Mrs. H. W. Holmes and Mrs. Percy Griffith, American women, were killed by a rebel shell.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—President Taft has ordered Ambassador Wilson to draw on the United States treasury for all money needed to feed foreign refugees in Mexico.

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 13.—Mexican rebel troops are advancing on Juarez.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—News that the Mexican rebels had the British legation in Mexico City under fire has stirred the radical press to demand American intervention.

Evidence of expert marksmanship on the part of the gunners in the rebel ranks was demonstrated in the sweeping shrapnel fire over the higher buildings in the centre of the city. These operations were intended to free the defenders from irritating riflemen and machine guns.

One section of these were in the tower of the sixth police station; a few blocks further east the Gore office building was used for the same purpose, while other structures within the same area harbored little quick-firers.

The diplomats demanded that the firing cease should be limited. Both Madero and Diaz evaded responsibility, each characterizing the attitude of the opposing side as barbarous and in violation of the rules of civilized warfare.

Diaz insisted he had to direct his fire at the points from which he was attacked and called attention to the fact that the government cannon were located in the heart of the business section and the thickly settled residential districts.

The diplomats replied to Madero the great damage done to many residences and the fact that the American Consulate had been demolished by government shells, and pointed out that the American Embassy was filled with Americans driven from their homes by a bombardment of which no notice had been given. All the governments, they added, were deeply concerned for their subjects and citizens.

American troops would work in conjunction with those of Cuba, and possibly with those of Great Britain and Germany, both of which Powers have warships available in the gulf.

Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, today said the Taft administration intended to stave off intervention as long as possible, and added that he did not consider that the killing of Mrs. Holmes and Mrs. Griffith by the rebels yesterday would constitute valid excuse for the landing of troops in Mexico.

"Their deaths were most unfortunate," said the chief of staff, "but it was only a portion of the fortunes of war. The United States cannot attempt to prevent a foreign country fighting in its own capital unless our citizens are attacked because they are Americans, and there is no indication that any of these wounded were shot because of their nationality. They were either onlookers or non-combatants within the line of fire, after they had been warned to leave. Of course, if either side attacks the American embassy it would be a different matter. But up to date, there has been no indication of such action."

Say Army Is Not Ready.

Army officers generally today deplored any hostile action by the United States when the army is in its present unprepared state. A prominent military official who did not desire his name to be mentioned said:

"There is no use in threatening intervention or talking about it if you don't mean to make good your threat. If you tell a man you are going to shoot him, you want to have your revolver in your pocket, loaded and ready to fire. Otherwise, the other man may get the drop on you. The United States cannot possibly intervene in Mexico in less than two weeks and there is no use talking about such a thing from the army standpoint. The navy may be prepared for instant military action, but the army certainly is not."

Taft is Tired Out.

President Taft was weary but cheerful when he turned his attention today to the Mexican situation. The President and five members of the Cabinet returned here at an early hour from Philadelphia, where they attended the Union League Club's golden jubilee. The President had less than ten hours sleep in the last two days, and added to his busy program for today by participating in a church cornerstone ceremony here.

Secretary of War Stimson received assurances from the commander of the army transports Meade, Sumner, McClellan and Kilpatrick, that the ships have been placed in readiness to receive troops and that they are being completely stocked and provisioned for a thirty-days' trip. The four transports, at Newport News, can accommodate about 4,200 men, with cavalry horses, or about 6,000 men without horses.

The Secretary was informed that the transports will be able to clear Newport News the moment the troops are placed aboard.

That pressure is being brought by foreign governments on the United States to take measures to bring about peace in Mexico is evident by "the casual" visit of foreign representatives in Washington to the State Department within the last forty-eight hours, at least five diplomats representing governments which have a number of citizens in Mexico having called at the State Department, and they have indicated clearly that they expect this Government to protect foreigners.

Ambassador Wilson reports that yesterday's casualties were fully 800 killed and 1,500 wounded, many in each class being non-combatants.

SCENES OF THE FIGHTING IN MEXICO CITY

The National Theatre, scene of the federals' big repulse, is still in construction, and will cost $11,000,000.

The Arsenal, where Diaz is intrenched, is about 400 yards square, with several barracks and block houses among shade trees.

The Y. M. C. A. Building is two blocks west of the Arsenal, and in the highest structure in that part of the city.

Porter's Hotel, the American Club, the Mutual Life Building, the cable office and the American Consulate are about a third of a mile to the northwest of the Arsenal and in the line of the rebel fire.

The Alameda, camping ground of the federals, is a park about a thousand yards long, west of the Arsenal.

The American Embassy is about two and a half miles south of the Arsenal.

AMERICAN NAVY OFFICERS ARE ATTACKED AT ACAPULCO

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Two officers of the American gunboat Denver were assaulted in Acapulco, Mexico, according to Navy Department dispatches today. Neither was injured. Surgeon Camerer and Ensign Guthrie were attacked while on their way to the ship.

Commander Thomas Washington of the Denver sent a wireless to Washington saying that he was on his way from Acapulco to Amapala, Salvador, having cleared Acapulco. Prior to the departure of the Denver considerable anti-American feeling was manifested. This culminated in an assault upon the officers.

TAFT ORDERS AMBASSADOR TO FEED FOREIGN REFUGEES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—At the direction of President Taft, Secretary of State Knox today directed Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson at Mexico City to draw on the treasury of the United States for as much money as he needed to house and feed all foreign refugees in the City of Mexico. This action was taken following the receipt of Ambassador Wilson's report showing that more than 500 foreigners—about half of them Americans—already have sought refuge at the embassy.

Wilson said that he had received a number of houses near the embassy and had housed the refugees there. He also has appointed a committee to minister to their needs and to dole out ammunition to all the men and to such of the women as know how to use a gun.

The ambassador's report contained confirmation of the death of Mrs. H. W. Holmes and Mrs. Percy Griffith, American women, who were killed by a rebel shell which entered their home late yesterday, and the wounding of Allie Bland, a printer.

Ready to Rush Troops.

With the return of President Taft early today, the War Department resumed its activities with regard to Mexico. Major-General Leonard Wood immediately on arrival at his office issued a blanket order revoking all leaves of absence and directing all officers to return to their commands with all haste.

Several of the most important railroad systems throughout the United States informed the War Department that they are holding special cars in readiness to transport troops in any section of the United States.

It is the plan of the War Department to embark the first expeditionary force in two detachments, one from Newport News, Va., the other from Galveston, Tex., as, convoyed by a special detachment of the Atlantic fleet, these will converge about the centre of the Gulf of Mexico and will proceed to Vera Cruz and Tampico.

At the same time the battleships Wyoming, Utah, Florida, Arkansas, North Dakota, Michigan, South Carolina, Idaho and Ohio, the cream of the American Navy, will dash westward from Guantanamo, Cuba, prepared to land 8,000 bluejackets and marines at any point on the gulf coast.

Would Land at Vera Cruz.

With the knowledge that this tremendous force would be available in four days, it is the plan of the administration, if all other expedients fail, to land the naval force at Vera Cruz and use it to blaze a way inland to Mexico City, much as was done from Tientsin to Pekin at the time of the Boxer uprising in China.

In order to forestall any protest from Mexico that the United States is intervening unwarrantedly, it is probable that the State capital much longer. Governor Gonsales has prepared to flee.

According to the refugees, while en route to the border rebels attempted to dynamite the train, but were captured. The prisoners were brought to Juarez. One American was in the number.

The refugees reported the rioters Monday night and Tuesday paraded the streets crying "Death to Madero; vive Diaz."

RIOTING IS RENEWED IN CHIHUAHUA CITY; GOVERNOR A REFUGEE

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 13.—Rioting broke out in Chihuahua City when news of the uprising in Mexico City was received there, and continued almost continuously, according to information brought here today by American refugees. Governor Abram Gonsales was hissed by the populace and his troops refused to scatter the mob. Believing it is dangerous to remain in the

TWO AMERICAN WOMEN IN HOMES ARE SHOT DOWN BY MEXICAN SHELLS

17,000 LIVES DEPEND ON AMERICAN INTERVENTION; TAFT REFUSES TO ACT

THE APPEAL

EDITOR AMERICAN: MEXICO CITY, Feb. 13.

The 17,000 Americans and other foreigners resident here are wildly enthusiastic and delighted over the news of the sending of battleships and troops to Mexico, but they express the fear that President Taft will change his orders if conditions become quieter here when the ships reach Vera Cruz.

For God's sake, use all your great influence to prevent that fatal error, for unless the troops come in great strength there can be no safety here for foreigners, no matter how conditions improve on the surface. You can do no greater patriotic humanitarian work than to urge administration to effective action.

(Signed) N. A. JENNINGS, American Correspondent.

THE RESPONSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—President Taft has decided to do nothing on his own initiative on the Mexican crisis. He is willing to let Congress authorize intervention if it wants to, but he himself refuses to assume any responsibility.

Although the demand to protect the lives and property of American and other foreign residents of Mexico presses imperatively for immediate decisive action—constituting the gravest test of the Monroe Doctrine in history—President Taft packed off to Philadelphia with practically his entire Cabinet to attend a banquet, leaving only Secretaries Knox and Stimson behind to grapple with the crisis.

While six American warships are on their way to Mexican waters their commanders have orders not to land a man unless authorized by Congress.

SIX BATTLESHIPS WITH 6,000 MEN ARE RUSHED TO THE MEXICAN COAST

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Six battleships and cruisers, with approximately 6,000 jackies and officers, are rushing under full steam for Mexican ports—four on the Atlantic and two on the Pacific. The first should arrive Friday, the last Sunday.

Ten other crack fighting ships of the Atlantic battleship fleet, swinging at anchors seventy hours off at Guantanamo, are ready for sea. They have approximately 9,000 officers and men.

The Navy's plans show:

Georgia, 15,000-ton battleship, Captain Marbury Johnson; due at Vera Cruz Friday.

Vermont, 16,000-ton battleship, flagship of Rear Admiral Fletcher, commanding the Second Division of the Atlantic Fleet, Captain Harry McL. P. Huse; due at Vera Cruz Saturday.

Nebraska, 15,000-ton battleship, Captain Spencer S. Wood; due at Vera Cruz Saturday.

Virginia, 15,000-ton battleship, flagship of Rear Admiral Usher, commanding the third division; Captain John D. McDonald, due at Tampico Saturday.

Colorado, 14,000-ton armored cruiser, flagship of Rear Admiral Southerland, commander-in-chief of Pacific fleet; Captain William L. Gilmer; due at Manzilla Friday.

South Dakota, 14,000-ton armored cruiser; Captain Charles P. Plunkett; due at Acapulco Sunday.

Other Warships Ready.

Within call to supplement this force are the cruiser Denver, en route to Acajutla, Salvador; transport Buffalo, at Corinto, Nicaragua; cruiser Des Moines, en route to Bluefields, Nicaragua, and due there Saturday; gunboat Nashville, en route to Puerto Cortes, Honduras, and gunboat Annapolis, en route to Amapala, Honduras.

The battleships Wyoming, Utah, Florida, Arkansas, North Dakota, Michigan, South Carolina, Minnesota, Idaho and Ohio, seven torpedo boat destroyers and many auxiliary craft of the Atlantic fleet remain with Rear Admiral Badger, commanding the Atlantic fleet at Guantanamo.

Thirty-five thousand men of the army, navy and marine corps are in readiness to move.

The First Brigade of the First Army Division, just created in the reorganization, 2,000 men to all and the nucleus of an expeditionary force of 15,000, is on marching orders ready to entrain for Newport News, Va., where army transports wait under steam.

Between 2,500 and 3,000 marines of the Atlantic battleship fleet and at the Guantanamo naval station were prepared for immediate movement to Vera Cruz, where they might be kept aboard ship ready for landing to blaze an avenue of escape to Mexico City for foreigners, as they did at Pekin.

Constitutional Question.

It has been suggested that to land troops in Mexico would be such an act of war as can be justified only by a resolution of Congress. Many military experts fail to see any distinction between such landing of troops on foreign soil in case of anarchy and the employment of marines for the same purpose as was done in Nicaragua recently.

To meet the constitutional objection, in case the transports were sent to Vera Cruz, it is understood that the commanding officers would be instructed not to land troops except upon Congressional authorization. Their presence on the coast, it is felt, would doubtless have a strong moral effect upon the standing factions in Mexico and more than a week's time would be saved in placing the soldiers just where they would be needed in case danger to foreign lives and property should become more imminent.

A wholesale evacuation of the city by the foreign element would involve the latter in an enormous financial loss, according to the precedents established in the Civil War, it is doubtful whether any compensation could be exacted from whatever government may exist after the close of hostilities in Mexico. However, it is apparent that the administration is likely to find it very difficult to adhere strictly to this declared policy of non-intervention, if the situation in the City of Mexico is not materially changed for the better in a very short time.

How America Is Preparing for Mexican Intervention

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Thirty-five thousand men of the army, navy and marine corps have been made ready for action.

The first brigade of the first army division, just created in the reorganization, 2,000 men in all, and the nucleus of an expeditionary force of 15,000, was put on marching orders ready to entrain for Newport News, Va., where army transports wait under steam. Battleship Nebraska, due Vera Cruz Saturday.

Battleship Virginia, flagship of Rear Admiral Usher, commanding third division; due Tampico Saturday.

Cruiser Colorado, flagship of Rear Admiral Southerland, commander-in-chief of Pacific fleet; due Mazatlan Friday.

Cruiser South Dakota, due Acapulco Sunday.

Within call are the cruiser Denver, en route to Acajutla, Salvador; transport Buffalo, at Corinto, Nicaragua; cruiser Des Moines, en route to Bluefields, Nicaragua; gunboat Nashville, en route to Puerto Cortes, Honduras, and gunboat Annapolis, en route to Amapala, Honduras.

Hen Defies Snow By Hatching 2 Husky Chicks Under Bush

BUZZARDS BAY, Feb. 13.—A. E. Booth, who lives over near the Gray Gables railroad station, has a "bird" of a hen. The biddy in question has hatched chickens out in the bushes with the snow all around and the weather logging zero. Booth says he never heard of such a thing before.

Booth first noticed the hen was among the missing. He finally located her under a bush on a "bridge." Nothing but her found she had hatched two out of eight eggs. The two chickens he carried into the kitchen, and now the "cold wave" chickens are getting to be big enough to eat by Easter or thereabouts. The chickens have it all over the ordinary "incubator" broods for being husky.

X. L.—Let Winslet, Ct., take notice that Buzzards Bay is putting across the best nature freak of the Winter.

Accordion Plaits and Tuneful Norfolks to Be Harmonious Style

CLEVELAND, Feb. 13.—Men will wear accordion plaited clothes this Spring and Summer. Not all men, of course, but the fastidious youths, who have just begun the culture of misplaced eyebrow type of mustache. The new fashion was shown for the first time in Cleveland by the National Association of Merchant Tailors at the Hotel Statler today.

Regulation accordion-plaited coat will be adopted by the committee on styles is a conjecture, but youths who peep in at the style show to find out what they're going to wear, may see the creamy, tan-shaded and varie-colored masterpieces fitted out on elegantly dressed dummies arranged in dress parade fashion.

The basis of the pattern is evidently Norfolk, but the belt has been sewed in and plaited from above and below, across the tails, shoulders and breast.

TOO MUCH THRIFT SCORED BY ZUEBLIN

Professor Charles Zueblin, speaking before the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs at the Arlington Street Church, declared that the Puritan conscience is a "menace to society." He said that too much thrift was bad, as overwork proved. "Is for the individual advantage, but for the public disadvantage."

REFUGEES POUR INTO TEXAS WITH VIVID TALES OF REBELLION

LAREDO, Tex., Feb. 13.—Today's train from Mexico City brought many refugees, men, women and children, who fled when the Diaz revolt began.

The passengers reported no disorder along the line of the Mexican National from Mexico City to Laredo, but said subdued excitement was in evidence everywhere.

Mexican newspapers indicated the stress under which the government was undergoing to bring about quiet. Sunday's papers reported once more that Federal troops were cooped up in the town of Atoyac, State of Guerrero, and that rebels in Chalco, State of Mexico, had kidnaped a man and was holding him for ransom. The government forces were trying to rescue this man, whose name was not given.

The newspapers asserted that the Tlalpam Cadets, who liberated General Reyes, killed their own leader, Colonel Morelos, when he attempted to persuade them to surrender to the government.

In the taking of La Ciudadela the Mexican press reported that General Diaz secured 50,000 rifles.

DROWNS TRYING TO SAVE BOSTON MAN

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 13.—Vincent O'Brien of Germantown, Pa., student at St. Vincent's Parochial School, was drowned in Carnegie Lake while trying to save Thomas F. Ryan of Boston, with whom he had been skating. Ryan reached shallow water.

GLOUCESTER FACING FRESH FISH FAMINE

GLOUCESTER, Feb. 13.—Gloucester is facing a fish famine of greater extent than any of recent years and dealers in fresh fish are facing ruin because of the unprecedented shortage in their supplies.

For three weeks but one off-shore fishing schooner has entered Gloucester with a full load, and she was a dredger. How long this condition of affairs will remain, Gloucester looks like a deserted village and its water front, usually crowded with vessels, is abandoned save by a small fleet of gill-netters, who are daily attempting to break the famine.

WESLEYAN SECURES BASEBALL COACH

Mrs. Catherine Corrigan, forty-two years old, is in a serious condition at the Malden Hospital as a result of burns which she received early today when a lamp exploded and set fire to her clothes in the home of George Mitchell at No. 10 Everett street, Malden, where she is employed as housekeeper.

SHOE MEN AID SOUTH AMERICA TOUR PROGRAM

Cooperation by business organizations throughout New England is assured to the Boston Chamber of Commerce for the success of its South American tour.

The New England Shoe and Leather Association has just issued an appeal that the shoe industry be strongly represented among the members of the party, and it is likely that Yankee shoes will be among the most important of our industries to be displayed to the South Americans.

The Chamber of Commerce is in constant receipt of invitations from the ministers to various South American countries urging that the chief cities be visited.

The original itinerary omitted Colombia, but pressure from the republic is likely to lead to an important Columbian port being visited. Equador is another republic which is not at present on the list.

Senator Lodge has written to Secretary James A. McKibben of the chamber a letter strongly supporting the tour and expressing a belief that it will mean increased business for New England.

Reports from Europe boldly made because there are less than two weeks remaining in which to complete the party.

Secretary McKibben believes there will be no difficulty in securing fifty persons to make the tour, but it is desired that the party be as representative as possible of New England industries and some applicants are likely to be rejected in favor of those whose presence might be more beneficial to the extension of trade relations.

INVESTIGATE DEATH OF AGED WOMAN IN SOMERSWORTH, N. H.

SOMERSWORTH, N. H., Feb. 13.—The local police began an investigation today to clear up the mystery in the death of Miss Ellen Sweeney, eighty years of age, whose body was found in the bedroom of her apartment in a house she owned at No. 51½ Franklin street. It was believed the woman had been frozen to death.

The fact that articles of clothing had been thrown about her head caused the authorities to make a thorough search of the house. The woman was comfortably well off and was known to have kept money hidden about her apartment. The police await the arrival of Mrs. Kate Desmond of Lawrence, sister of the dead woman, before breaking into the latter's trunks.

GREEKS ASK WHAT HAS BEEN DONE WITH $200,000 WAR FUND

Greek residents of New England demand an accounting of the $200,000 contributed as a Greek war fund. In a bill in equity in the Supreme Court, filed by Boston Greeks against the Pan-Hellenic Union, they ask that it be enjoined from making further collections.

The manager of the union is Constantinos N. Papamihalopulos of Boston. The plaintiffs say Papamihalopulos has failed to keep no accounting and that recently he went to Greece.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Sherman P. Allen was expected in Boston today to investigate the charges of delay, loss of money and faulty design in the plans for the new Custom House, and the dispute over the site for the proposed appraisers' stores building.

It is believed that as a result of his investigation of the conditions which were exposed by the Sunday AMERICAN radical changes will be made.

About $600,000 of the $1,800,000 appropriation has been used in preparing the plans for the proposed tower.

CHURCH WANTS VOICE IN TRIAL BOYNTON SEEKS

The standing committee of the Park and Bowdoin Union Congregational Church of Wollaston, which will meet next week to consider the question of demanding a representative at the "ex parte" council called to consider the expulsion of Chesser A. Boynton of heresy from the church, was informed today that Mr. Boynton has suggested to the church that the council be made a "mutual meeting." The suggestion was made in a letter to Clerk C. A. Richardson of the church. If the church wishes to do so, it can have the same interest in the council as Mr. Boynton will have, the latter suggested.

Mr. Boynton, who is suing Rev. William H. Ayres, pastor of the church, for $25,000 for the alleged alienation of the affections of his wife, Mrs. Helen W. Boynton, omitted the name of the Wollaston Church in his notices of the council sent to all the Congregational churches in the Suffolk South district. He stated today that he did not care to invite the Wollaston Church as it would naturally have a representative at the meeting.

The standing committee announced that it was an injustice if the church was not represented in the council, which will be held in Pilgrim Hall, Boston, on February 25. Mr. Boynton seeks to have the church confer a vital influence to decide if he has been unjustly treated.

Wolgast's action in agreeing to the Murphy-Wolgast match in San Francisco, February 22, against Jones' advice, caused the split.

RILEY'S COLUMN

NEITHER Jimmy McAleer nor Joe Wood had confirmed or denied the story that "Smoky Joe" will receive $7,500 for his efforts this year to smoke them past the American League batters. If it is true, Wood becomes in one big jump the highest paid pitcher in the league, with the possible exception of Walter Johnson, who is credited with receiving $7,000, but whose actual salary is not known publicly, and perhaps "Big Ed" Walsh, whose pay is a club secret, too. All we know today is that $7,500 is understood outside of the innermost circles to be higher than any other pitcher was paid before McAleer was credited with giving Wood that amount.

* * *

IF this is true, Wood's salary is almost doubled this year—a handsome and substantial compliment to the youth who leaped to the front of his league last year and beat all league records for percentage of games won, besides tying the league record for consecutive victories. Wood is but twenty-three years old, and under favorable circumstances should have at least seven more years as a star in big league baseball. Added to his salary are the potential profits of world's series, too. Last year his share was $4,000. If the Sox should win another world's series, Wood should receive close to $15,000 as this season's income, including "side" profits—if his salary is really $7,500.

* * *

THAT'S a very tight little salary for a twenty-three-year-old, working six months a year. Very few presidents of the leading banks of the country beat that, estimating on a twelve-months-to-the-year basis.

* * *

WOOD pitched in forty-three games last season. At $7,500 a year that would mean just about $172.09 per game. He pitched 344 innings—just averaging eight innings to a game. That would be about $21.80 per inning. Not being quite so old, nor nearly so steady as Walter Johnson, Wood wants more balks and more energy than Johnson does. While "the Terrible Swede" pitches from about 90 to about 100 balls in a game of nine innings, "Smoky Joe" goes long about 120 balls, on an average. While no statistics have been kept, you will find Wood averaging about twelve balls to an inning. So, you see, Joe Wood will be paid about $1.72 every time he hurls the horsehide in a regular game of baseball this year—always assuming that the $7,500 story is true.

* * *

IN other words: Wood threw that ball from 4,000 to 4,200 times last season and, for probably just about the same work he is credited with receiving $7,500 this year, to say nothing of perquisites. So there's still plenty of easy money if you only know how to get it.

NEW YORK baseball writers say:

"McGraw is still negotiating for Walt Tyler of the Boston Nationals." We have heard of Walt Tyler who was a high league rebellion in England long before baseball was invented and Walt Tell, who is very popular in the Order of Midnight Soap, but the only Tyler connected with the Boston Nationals is George A., alias "Lefty," alias "The Cross Fire King," who came to this country from Derry, N. H., by jack, and allows he will stick around these parts for some time to come.

M'ALEER AND M'ROY RETURN FROM LEAGUE MEETING IN GOTHAM

Secretary McRoy of the Boston Red Sox has returned from New York, where he had been in attendance at the American League meeting. President McAleer will also be at his desk in the Hub office. Vice President John I. Taylor made only a very brief stay in New York returning immediately after the close of the meeting.

McRoy says that Jake Stahl and Joe Wood were both in fine condition, as is also Heine Wagner.

Jake declared that he never felt better than he does at the present time. McRoy said, and Wood never looked better. The latter benedicted much from his Winter's rest and simple life. There was absolutely no reason, so far as he could see, why Joe should not be able to pitch just as effectively next season as he did last year.

HUTCHINS RETAINS SQUASH TITLE

Constantine Hutchins will keep his title of champion squash racquet player of the State as a result of his victory yesterday over P. D. Rhodes in the final match of the individual championship of the Massachusetts Squash Racquet Association tournament at the Boston Athletic Association. As throughout the tournament, Hutchin's victory was in straight games, and while the scores, 18—15, 15—7, 15—6, hardly show the keenness of the match, it was a grand struggle.

HARVARD AND TECH IN MAT CONTESTS

Technology wrestling team will match up against the Harvard mat team on the Tech gym tomorrow night. The Tech men have been doing some excellent work during their past performances, and the team has won every match it has engaged. The bout with Harvard has been postponed several times because the mentors could not agree on a date. Entries will be made in the 115, 125, 145, 158-pound and heavyweight classes.

PILGRIM A. A. SEVEN IS DEFEATED, 3-1

The Three Rivers, Quebec, hockey team defeated the Pilgrim A. A. 3 to 1 at the Arena last night. All the scoring was done in the first half, the Canadians showing up stronger in all departments. The ice was in better condition than at any time this Winter. In fact it was too fast, especially for the Pilgrim players, who lost the puck many times.

TECH SEVEN MEETS WILLIAMS TODAY

The Technology hockey team will play Williams in Williamstown this afternoon. The game was originally scheduled for Boston, but the place was changed. The bout with Harvard has been postponed several times because the mentors could not agree on a date. Entries will be made in the 115, 125, 145, 158-pound and heavyweight classes.

BOSTON IS BEATEN.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—New York made it three straight from Boston in the National Three-Cushion Billiard League here. John Dankleman defeated Charles Wipp, 500 to 384, in seventy-two innings. Dankleman made a run of 5 and Warren 3.

School Sevens Meet in Two Big Games at Milton Today

Milton will be the scene of two star hockey games this afternoon. Arlington High, the leading candidate for the school hockey championship of the State, will play the Milton Academy seven and Milton High will have Somerville High as its opponent.

Arlington should have an easy time in defeating Milton Academy. The Arlington seven has played in many games this season and has proved its worth on all occasions. The Milton team has had but few chances to play this season and the lack of games will undoubtedly handicap its playing against such a strong combination as Arlington.

Somerville High is expected to defeat Milton, but Captain Fred Dudley of the latter team is confident that his boys will prove the winners. Somerville made a favorable impression last week against Arlington High, and if the boys display the same brand of hockey today they should prove the winners. Jim Robertson is playing a fast game for the Red and Blue team, and the work of Harry Robertson in goal has been exceptionally good all season.

Somerville High will play in the first game of the special series at the Arena next Saturday morning, meeting the Mount School seven, and the game today will give it plenty of practice.

The boys of Boston College High and St. John's Prep are taking full advantage of the good ice offered and are practicing hard for their annual game at the Arena next Saturday morning. The same can be said of the boys at Malden High and Medford High, and these three games promise to provide the best schoolboy hockey played at the Arena this season. Great interest is being displayed by the followers of school athletics and a big attendance is anticipated. The first game between Somerville and Stone will be called at 8 o'clock.

M'CORMICK WINNER IN RACQUET FINAL

TUXEDO PARK, N. Y., Feb. 12.—Harold F. McCormick of the University Club, Chicago, won the national championship by two sets, defeating Ernest Greenhalgh, Jr., of the Tennis and Racquet Club of Montreal, three games to one in the final round for the gold racquet championship on the courts of the Tuxedo Tennis and Racquet Club. The Canadian won the first game after an uphill fight, 15—12. The next three went to the Chicagoan, 15—12, 15—2, 15—9.

MUNICIPAL A. A. TO HOLD LONG "HIKE"

The Municipal Athletic Association has announced plans for a twenty-five mile "Walk Around the Hub" on Washington's Birthday. The walk will be in two sections. The start will be made from the Charlesbank Gymnasium, West End, at 9:30 a. m. Advance entries will be required and the blanks are now ready at the association's headquarters, No. 6 Beacon street.

Thorpe to Compete in Athletic Games at Mechanics Hall

Jim Thorpe, the famous Cahlisle Indian champion, will arrive in this city tomorrow for the athletic carnival to be run off on Saturday night in the Mechanics Building. The leap leg injun is in fine fettle, for in a letter received from his yesterday he says: "I am in fine condition and on Saturday night expect to smash all the professional indoor marks."

It will be Thorpe's debut as a professional, and his whole career, both in athletics, baseball, with a prospect of stage work between seasons rests on how he acquits himself.

Thorpe will not be the only notable athlete to visit Boston this week, for today Billy Quaal, the American distance champion, and Willie Kolehmainen, the Finnish champion, will arrive in town for their three mile race, another feature of the carnival.

This race and the Thorpe competition will not begin until after the hockey game between Harvard and Princeton at the Arena, and as the latter will be started early, the hockey fans will not be deprived of seeing Thorpe, Kolehmainen and Quaal.

JOE WHITE BEATS MIKE DONOVAN

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Joe White of Boston checked Young Mike Donovan's fighting career in their ten-round bout at the Fairmount A. C. Even the potent influence of Professor Mike Donovan, who sat in his son's corner, was unable to check White's triumph. White won by only a small margin at that, Donovan had an advantage in height on the Bostonian which proved a big factor.

TINKER SURE REDS WILL MAKE GOOD

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Joseph Tinker, whom chance, America as the "smartest" ball player with whom I ever came in contact," is confident that the Reds will surprise many of their critics by the showing they will make next year. If Tinker's success is in proportion to his popularity he should certainly be in the race all the way.

DARTMOUTH HOCKEY TEAM IS WINNER

HANOVER, N. H., Feb. 13.—The Dartmouth hockey team kept up its winning streak by defeating the Massachusetts Aggies here by the score of 5 to 3. The game was fast and both teams played good hockey. Wanamaker starred for the Green.

Zbyszko-Lurich Battle Here for Gotch Meeting

Zbyszko, the mighty Pole, is a step nearer the wrestling title by virtue of his quick victory over Karl Lemle at Mechanics Hall last evening and Lurich is now the only stepping stone in his onward path to a match with Gotch.

Gotch is willing to come out of retirement and has practically accepted the terms of Promoter Tuohey to wrestle here, the bout to be staged sometime in April at Fenway Park.

The two most likely candidates and the most persistent challengers for a match with the Iowan champion are Zbyszko and Lurich, and these two men will have a chance to decide which is runner up when they meet here next Thursday night in the final of the elimination bouts.

The Pole is confident of winning over Lurich, while the latter claims a couple of victories over the Pole in Europe, and as it means the long-looked for chance at Gotch both men will battle to the limit to win.

LENNOX IS SOLD.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 13.—Eddie Lennox, third baseman, has been sold by the Kansas City American Association Club to the Montreal Club of the International League.

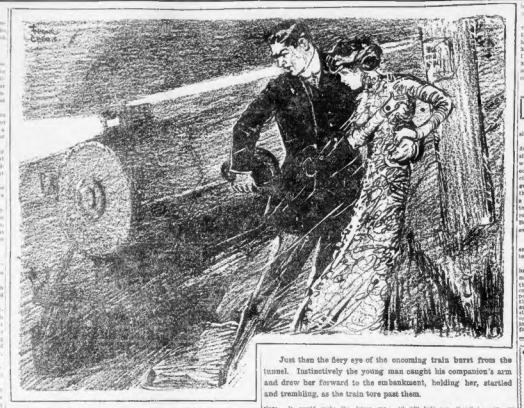
THE MYSTERY OF MARY

A Thrilling Story of a Strange Disappearance and of a Love That Trusted and Was Triumphant

By GRACE LIVINGSTON HILL LUTZ



HE opened his eyes and glanced at his watch. The train on which he had been entombed late. It hurried away from the station, and was swallowed up in the blackness of the tunnel, as if it knew its own shortcomings and wished to make up for them.

It was five minutes of six, and in the passing one looked back at the long field of snow that lay in the valley across the tracks, a delicate pencilling of electric light framed into outline against the sky's deepening dusk, emphasizing the bleakness of the land. He had a dinner engagement at 7, and it was yet some distance to the manor, where a rapid train must be made if he were to arrive on time.

A Strange Meeting

The thought of the manor and there were many people attending it. A shortcut led down along the bottom of the valley, and to the grassy embankment. It would bring him a scant three minutes' walk, and a mile of rails was standing over at the manor inn above the station.

It was against the rules to walk beside the tracks—there was a large sign to that effect in front of them—but it would save five minutes. He scanned the platform hastily to see if any officials were in sight, then leaped down the distressing trestle.

Under the centre of the bridge a path twisted him, as of old, partying him, and, again, caught his attention, and a woman's voice broke across his startled senses.

"Please don't stop and look around," he said, and the answer caught up with him here in the shadow. "But will you help me, as such trouble just for a moment? I'm not sure about my way to get out of this dreadful place! I can see only dark ridges here, and I'm afraid I shall be followed. Will you tell me where I can get out of here?"

After an instant's astonished pause he obeyed her request, walking forward a few feet to such broken ties, until he saw that there lead to the tracks. He was aware, also, of the low rustle of a rich woolen dress and the smell of fur coat.

His companion had merged for herself, and began again in a tone of apology:

"I see you were a gentleman, and I didn't know what to do. I thought you would help me to get somewhere safe. Will you?"

Just then the fiery eye of the oncoming train burst from the tunnel. Instinctively the young man caught his companion's arm and drew her forward to the embankment, holding her, startled and trembling, as the train tore past them.

"Thank you," she said, faint, and apparently overcome perplexity. "I don't know what to do. I never was in this situation before. But I suppose it would be all right to get somewhere—I suppose on a well lighted station and get a train. I have money—and—then with a sudden little movement of dismay—and I have no ticket!"

His Vague Fears

The young man felt a curious desire to shield this girl as unexpectedly thrown upon his protection. A vague fear flitted across the margin of his judgment. Perhaps she was a thief, or an adventuress. But no, that was not the reality of her personality. He would be the last to put upon her that construction. Instinctively he stood between her and the train, as if to protect her from its fierce blast.

"I'll send out flash of lights and get help," he said, and started up the steep embankment, standing as he did so that the wind he said was absent, and that the glare would not reveal the face of the girl.

They Gain the Street

They were accomplished the eagerly passing by breath. The stop at the top of the bridge, made for the convenience of railroad hands, were out of the question, for they were at a dead height, and hung on the overhead the passing girl knew better than constantly such evil deeds.

At their interrupted from the dark, the man was sure his companion was a young and beautiful woman, and that she wore a light cloth gown, with neither fur nor flannel.

At the top of the embankment they paused, and the girl, with her head at her throat, looked backward with a shiver of apprehension. Her companion felt that could warrant talk which any in fly. He had not noticed her previously. The young man raised the hand and held a handkerchief before his face.

"Guess this way, quick!" he urged, and led her to the left, where he saw the entrance and stepped in after her. Then, as he found his companion, and was suddenly aware of the strange situation in which he had placed himself.

"I've Done Nothing Wrong"

"Can you tell me what is the matter, he asked, as the lights of a station came into view.

The girl had scarcely recovered breath from the long climb and the flight, and it was a moment before she answered.

"No, I cannot tell you what is the matter—the plotted and I have been kept a prisoner somewhere—I was to elope to-night with a man I—I don't love—but there is nothing wrong—no disgrace—nothing wrong—the second again her voice broke, and she began to sob.

"Please don't," he entreated with the utmost, and then wondered why in the world he said it.

"Thank you," she said, "but you misunderstood perhaps? I—I don't believe in God. I never was to this day. I have been kept a prisoner—I suppose to get somewhere—I suppose on a well lighted station and get a train. I have money—and—then with a sudden little movement of dismay—and I have no ticket!"

BOSTON UNIONS SEND STRIKERS FINANCIAL AID

Financial aid for the striking garment workers began to come in today. The executive board of Cigar Makers' Union, No. 97, of Boston sent $100; Electrical Workers' Union No. 103 sent $50, and Electrical Workers' Union, No. 104, sent $25.

The Cigar Makers' Union holds its regular meeting Friday night and at that time the question of levying voluntary assessments will be taken up.

500 More May Go Back.

Samuel Zorn, chairman of the strike committee, today said that negotiations are under way for settlement under the union agreement by two additional manufacturers of ready-made clothing, who operate nine shops and employ more than 500 workers.

He further stated that 1,400 members of the organization, who have returned under settlements previously effected, have voted to assess themselves 15 per cent. of their earnings to help those still out on strike.

With further settlements in view and financial assistance from other organizations in the city and State, the question of supplying fuel, food and clothing for the 3,100 now out can be adequately handled, he believes.

Some Nearly Destitute.

Chairman Zorn admitted, however, that because of the small pay received previous to the strike that a number of cases of near destitution had been called to the attention of the strike committee.

The committee will exert its utmost power to see that no striker or his family goes hungry, he said. The large number out and the small amount in hand makes it a hard problem to work out, however, he said, due, in a large measure to the drain on the International treasury by the New York strike, where 125,000 strikers had to be cared for.

RAINCOAT MAKERS STRIKE AT MILFORD; SIXTY EMPLOYES OUT

The I. W. W. Raincoat Makers' Union strike spread to Milford today when sixty employes of the Milford Rubber Company walked out in sympathy with the Boston strikers.

Arrangements were made by the Boston union for the strikers to come to this city to participate in a mass meeting at No. 15 Leverett street this afternoon.

Henry Cohen, business agent of the Boston local, today stated that the Milford strike was called because Boston raincoat manufacturers were sending work there to be completed. He further declared that the I. W. W. is prepared to call out the 10,000 men and women employed in that calling throughout the State.

Six of the thirty-four places affected by the original strike order issued last Friday have settled with the union. This puts back to work 150 of the 1,000 who struck, at union hours, wages and working conditions.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

It seems pretty certain that Albert Guyot, the noted French race-driver, will pilot the English Sunbeam racing car in the 500-mile national sweepstake race at Indianapolis on May 30.

Guyot is one of the idols of the French motor enthusiasts, having participated in nearly all of the great French races. In 1908 he won the light car event in the Grand Prix. He has won hundreds of medals and trophies, and is noted for his cool-headed, scientific driving, as well as for his daring. He is also an aeroplane pilot, and has figured prominently in motor boat racing.

The Sunbeam is some car abroad. Last year in September it created fifteen world's records. The same car broke the world's record for fifty miles, covering the distance from a standing start on the track at Brooklands in 32 minutes and 16 seconds.

A third Stutz car has been entered for the big race, to be driven by Dean Herr. Gil Anderson and Charlie Merz will drive the other Stutz cars.

Chicago goes on record as being against the idea of abolishing the national show. The National Association of Automobile Manufacturers at its meeting held during the Chicago show voted unanimously in favor of the continuance of the shows.

Another fact that showed the sentiment of the exhibitors at Chicago is that on the closing day of the passenger vehicle section a number of manufacturers discussed and favored applications to the association to run the next show ten days instead of seven because public interest was so great that it was impossible to give proper attention to the dealers and other prospective buyers.

T. E. Tomlinson, vice-president and general manager of the Invader Oil Company of New York, is in Boston visiting H. A. Schen, the New England manager of this company.

Mr. Tomlinson is widely known in the automobile trade. He has successfully conducted several motor car lubricant oil companies before he became associated with the Invader Company recently.

MYSTERY OVER SCOTT PARTY FUEL SHORTAGE

LONDON, Feb. 13.—Immediately upon the arrival of Captain Scott's Antarctic ship, the Terra Nova, at Christchurch, N. Z., today, a new mystery in connection with the expedition arose—that of the fuel shortage of Captain Scott's party. This the explorer in his last message said was a contributory cause of the failure of the party to get back safely, and for which he could not account.

The Christchurch correspondent of the Daily Chronicle cables an account of his futile attempt to get information on this point from the survivors. He had been chatting with Lieutenant Evans and other officers in the wardroom of the Terra Nova. All had been fairly communicative until he introduced the question of fuel and Captain Scott's statement in regard to the astonishing "failure" of Petty Officer Edgar Evans, who was regarded as the strongest man of the party, but who died of concussion of the brain a month before the others perished. Then, according to the correspondent, all the officers became suddenly reticent.

Has Little to Say.

Lieutenant Evans said the fuel shortage was hardly of sufficient importance for a newspaper to deal with and added:

"I think you had better not touch upon it."

The correspondent urged its importance, as Captain Scott had mentioned it as a contributory cause to the failure of the party to get back to One Ton Depot. Lieutenant Evans admitted that this was true and repeated his previous statement that the Scott party had fuel enough for a month beyond the time in which they were expected to return.

"Then the suggestion is," said the correspondent," that they ought to have been independent of the supplies at the depots.

"Yes, that is so," said Lieutenant Evans, adding that of the four parties who returned after the supporting polar party, hardly one reached a base with more than one day's fuel supply.

The correspondent asked, "Then what shortage did Captain Scott refer to?"

Lieutenant Evans replied, "I do not want to discuss that point further."

He repeated his opinion that it was not necessary to deal with this subject at present.

Bodies Still in Antarctic.

Beneath a cairn of rocks in the silent wastes of snow and ice, rest the bodies of Captain Scott, Dr. Edward A. Wilson, and Lieutenant H. R. Bowers, who perished after reaching the South Pole.

It has been generally believed that the bodies were brought back to civilization aboard the exploration ship Terra Nova, but a cable from Port Lyttleton, N. Z. today stated definitely that the bodies had been left behind. In the minds of the survivors of the expedition it was the thought most fitting that the human remains should be interred in that far region where the explorers had died so nobly.

Lieutenant Evans said at Port Lyttleton that the remains could have been brought back, if it had been deemed fitting.

The cairn of rocks, erected over the bodies, contains no epitaph, but its rude and uncouth mass is representative of the simplicity of Captain Scott's nature.

All arrangements have been completed for public memorial services in St. Paul's Cathedral tomorrow, which King George will attend. Queen Mary also will probably be present. The King will wear the uniform of a British admiral, as Captain Scott was an officer in the navy.

A pathetic chord was touched today by a telegram from Henley-on-the-Thames, where little Peter Scott, son of the explorer, is living with his grandmother. Peter gravely informed his grandmother that it must soon be time for his father to return. "Because," said the little boy, "the Winter is going and papa must come home to see the pretty flowers."

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

Stocks were weak at the opening in Boston and New York and previously there had been a heavy tone in the London market. Locally, initial business was very quiet and when the market became a little more active prices weakened. At the end of the first hour North Butte was down 1½ and Chino, Greene-Cananea, American Zinc and Indiana were among issues to show fractional losses.

In New York at that time Reading was off 2¼, Amalgamated 1½, Southern Pacific 1½ and Union Pacific 1¼. Steel and Can were down a point. Prices were still on the slide at that period.

Heidelbach, Ickelheimer & Co. announced this morning they had engaged $1,000,000 in gold for shipment to Argentina on Saturday. This brings the Argentina gold shipments up to $12,600,000.

The New York sub-treasury gained $167,000 from banks on Tuesday and has gained $3,950,000 since Friday.

New York Market Opens Weak.

When trading was resumed in New York the market showed the apprehension existing over the situation in Mexico, and threatened trouble between railroads and locomotive firemen. There was a feeling of demoralization at the opening. There was heavy selling pressure. Canadian Pacific led the downward movement with a decline of 2⅞, and at the end of the first half hour American Smelting and St. Paul were each off a point. American Can was down 1¼, Union Pacific 1¾ and Reading was showing the same loss as the latter Harriman issue. The whole list was weak.

Losses at the opening included Steel common ⅜, Amalgamated ¾, Atchison ⅜, American Can ⅝, Union Pacific 1¼, Sears-Roebuck 1¾, American Smelting ¼, Southern Pacific 1, Reading ½ and Lehigh Valley 1¼. After half an hour some buying developed and some issues made partial recoveries. Pennsylvania gained ⅜. Consolidated Gas, which sold ex-dividend of 1¾, was ¼ lower.

The Curb was heavy.

Americans in London were hesitant.

Otto H. Kahn on the Outlook.

Otto H. Kahn, who arrived in New York from Europe yesterday, remarked: "I did not say that everything points to a tremendous boom in the United States, but that we had for several years been laying the basis for a period of prosperity when the skies clear up. We have had good crops, and people have lived economically since 1907. Tariff revision is a ghost soon to be laid without much harm to business in general. I doubt that reduction will go far to reduce the cost of living. What we need most is the reform of our antiquated, crude currency system. Mexico's new revolution seems to have been inevitable."

London Copper Metal Quotations.

Spot copper opened and closed unchanged yesterday in the London market. Futures were up 2s. 6d. at the opening and closed unchanged. Sales were 200 tons of spot and 1,000 of futures. At the opening today spot was up 5s. and futures 2s. 6d., and the market was steady.

A cablegram from London received this morning states that Phelps, Dodge & Co. are offering March copper on the continent at 15.70 cents a pound and that Amalgamated is selling February at 16½.

It is reported from the other side of the ocean that big consumers take the same view of the metal situation as those in this country and think producers should lower prices. They are said to be using as little copper as possible at present and awaiting for the break they think can be forced. But the very largest agencies are standing firm for their present asking price.

Financial News in Brief.

The Bank of England's minimum rate of discount remained unchanged today at 5 per cent. The proportion of the Bank's reserve to liabilities is now 45.8 per cent. against 47 per cent. last week, and compares with an advance from 45.8 per cent. to 51¼ per cent. in the corresponding week last year.

The net profits of the National Biscuit Company for the year 1912 were $4,523,379, a decrease of $134,089.

For December the operating revenue of the Rutland railroad increased $34,512, and for the last fiscal year the increase was $195,808.

The hoarding of gold by French peasants has lessened. The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows an increase of 8,995,000 francs in gold holdings and a decrease of 11,343,000 in silver.

The Harriman lines dissolution plan as approved by Attorney-General Wickersham was submitted to the Federal Court of Appeals at St. Louis yesterday, and government and Union Pacific and Southern Pacific attorneys will discuss it before the court on February 24.

The London stock market was very dull yesterday and there was little business in American securities. Prices improved, however. Canadian Pacific weakened on the Berlin bourse. There was a better feeling in the Paris market.

The Bank of Bengal discount rate was reduced from 8 to 7 per cent. today.

"But for the scarcity of money abroad," says one market observer, "our stocks at present prices certainly would be attractive to foreign investors, and one of these days when the Turkish imbroglio is cleared up and hoarded funds are released we will re-export the securities taken off the hands of foreign holders last Autumn."

Jacob H. Schiff will sail for Europe next week to be abroad three months.

George E. Taber has been elected treasurer of the Wildey Savings Bank to succeed the late J. Lawrence Martin, and Chester C. Freeman has been appointed assistant treasurer to succeed Mr. Taber.

REQUIEM MASS FOR POPE'S SISTER SUNG IN VATICAN CHAPEL

ROME, Feb 13.—A requiem mass for the repose of the soul of Rosa Sarto, sister of Pope Pius X., who was buried yesterday, was said today in the Pope's private chapel in the Vatican.

Monsignor Zampini, one of the Pope's chaplains, officiated and the pontifical choir sang during the ceremony.

Reports that Pope Pius X. left the Vatican to attend his sister's funeral, thus breaking an unwritten law of fifty years standing, were officially denied at the Vatican.

GIGANTIC WAVE CARRIES SAILOR DOWN TO DEATH

One man, Jerry Shea, was lost, and two others, Patrick Foley and Paul Dumphy, were rescued when the three men were washed overboard from the fishing schooner Ellen and Mary, which was weathering a gale off the Georges Banks last Tuesday. The schooner reached Boston today, after going ashore in Boston Harbor.

Shea, Foley, Dumphy and Dick Powers had crawled on to the bowsprit to reef the jib. Heavy seas broke over them continually. They had nearly completed their task when a gigantic wave enveloped them, burying the bowsprit under six feet of water.

When the vessel righted it was seen that all but Powers had been washed overboard. Captain Brophy called for volunteers. Two dories were launched and a search made for the men. Foley and Dumphy were picked up as they were washed by the vessel. Although every sea threatened to swamp the boats, they kept up a search for fifteen minutes looking for Shea, but he had disappeared.

On the way up the harbor last night the schooner went ashore off Castle Island, where she remained until 3 a. m. today. She was pulled off by two tugs. She carried a cargo of 40,000 pounds of mixed fish.

The Greatness of the Moving Picture Recognized at Last

What This Newspaper Has Long Predicted Is Now Everywhere Recognized as Reality. Yet the Moving Picture Has Only Begun Its Work of Teaching, Entertaining and Elevating.

Copyright, 1913, by American Journal-Examiner

For many years we have told our readers of the great work that moving pictures are destined to do in the world.

Young men and old men should think of the moving picture and its possibilities. Great plays will be written for the moving picture.

Great actors and actresses will be developed by the moving picture, which demands and reproduces the expression and the emotions THROUGH ACTION.

The old Greek development of that which is beautiful in the human body, in human motion and in human form, will be developed on a higher scale than ever by moving pictures and their demands upon the actor.

The moving picture will make knowledge which has been painfully absorbed a pleasure and a delight to children.

The School Board of the town of Norwood, in this State, has purchased a moving picture machine for the Everett School.

The great State of Wisconsin, foremost in education, now uses the moving picture machine as a regular part of the public school system.

Before long every little country schoolhouse will have its moving picture machine, and the pictures will teach the children pleasantly in one hour more than they could be taught in a week or a month AGAINST THE GRAIN.

The lives of great men will be made familiar to children in moving pictures before they shall have reached the age of ten. Little boys and girls will have in their minds the great events of the life of Lincoln, from his cabin with one window to his death in the theatre—all impressed upon them in moving pictures.

The great battles of the world, the great naval conflicts—all of these can be reproduced, and will be reproduced and presented in moving pictures for the education and delight of millions upon millions.

Science and astronomy will be taught in moving pictures, minds that are dull will be awakened by moving pictures—for the great object of the educator is TO AWAKEN THE IMAGINATION.

How many men realize that the moving picture, among other things, WILL DIMINISH THE EXCESSIVE USE OF ALCOHOL?

Men set fire to their brains with whiskey because they want excitement, they want the brain to work. If they cannot have real imagination they want false imagination.

The false stimulant that alcohol gives to the brain the moving picture with motion, color, plot and excitement will supply legitimately. It is a fact that the class of saloons that formerly appealed to the young—and ruined them—the drinking places dealing in poisonous drinks now find their profits diminishing and their attendance falling off, thanks to the moving pictures.

Men that are engaged in manufacturing moving picture machines are distinctly educators. They are doing for knowledge a work as important as that which was done by the inventor and the manufacturer.

The whole task of the human race is to get into the minds of the young and of the old the knowledge accumulated by those that have gone before. The moving picture machine will do this as no other power could do it.

This we have long appreciated.

While those ignorantly opposing what is NEW opposed the moving picture, refused to see its power and tried to belittle its value, one of the editorials on moving pictures published by the Hearst newspapers bore the heading:

The Power of Moving Pictures; They Will Educate, Through the Eye, Hundreds of Millions of Children.

The Right Use of the Moving Picture Will Do for the Education of Children Infinitely More Even Than Has Ever Been Done by Printed Books.

Copyright, 1913, by American Journal-Examiner

We tell men whose minds are on the moving picture industry, whether as actors, writers of moving picture plays or manufacturers of machines, that their work is only beginning.

Every day EIGHT MILLIONS of human beings attend the moving pictures in the United States now. That number will be increased soon BY THE TOTAL NUMBER OF PUBLIC SCHOOL CHILDREN AND OF PRIVATE SCHOOL CHILDREN ALSO IN THE UNITED STATES.

It will be the business of this newspaper to encourage the useful, educating moving picture work, to give it editorial endorsement as we have always done, and by constant special attention at the hands of experts to secure for it the place that it deserves in the public estimation, as an education, an amusement and a natural, legitimate and wholesome stimulant to the brain of the human race.

For ages men and the animals before them received impressions through the eye. The eye tells more to the brain in a second than any man's tongue or book can tell in an hour.

The moving picture tells its story direct to the eye. It is the great and DIRECT educator.

Boards of education should use it: municipalities, instead of hampering it, should encourage it. STRONG CENSORSHIP SHOULD DISCOURAGE THAT WHICH IS HARMFUL; strict supervision should make moving picture resorts safe—but no harassing restrictions.

To hamper the development of the moving picture is as much of a crime as it was in the old days to hamper the development of the printing press.

The Flight Over the Pyrenees

The Descendants of the Cavern Dwellers Have Now Rivalled the Birds at the Place Where They Grovelled in Caves.

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

It is only four years ago since Wilbur Wright drew multitudes of wondering spectators together at Pau, at the foot of the Pyrenees in France, to see him sail in his aeroplane, in circular flights, a few yards above ground.

To the mountain eagles watching him from the mighty peaks which look down upon the valley of Pau he must have resembled a barnyard fowl trying to fly over a fence. If they possessed a sense of humor they would have smiled at the suggestion that that awkward, circling affair away down in the bottom of the valley, would soon be disputing with them the high empire of the air.

A short time ago the French aviator, Bider, starting from Pau, where Wilbur Wright had first proved to doubting Europe that man can fly if he will, rose, in steady flight, to an elevation of 9,000 feet, and then sailed serenely over the great mountain barrier that separates France from Spain, looking down upon the towering peaks and the lofty home of the eagles, and demonstrating that those mountains which from time immemorial have defied armies and stood like an impregnable wall against invasion are no obstacle to man when once science has given him wings.

At the present moment such a feat is hardly more than a spectacular performance, and some persons deem it as an unnecessary risking of life. But it is a great achievement, all the same—one of those achievements the risks of which must be taken if man's mastery over the earth is to be completed. It is to the honor of human nature that men exist who are willing to take their lives in their hands for such a cause. That flight over the Pyrenees is worth a dozen battles. It is a triumph won for the whole human race.

The rapidity of the progress made in the art of aviation has almost no parallel. It is so swift that it is hardly appreciated. It is only a little over two years ago (in September, 1910) that Chavez made his attempt to cross the Alps in an aeroplane. He did not attack the entire width of the range, but started from its lofty dividing furrow, the valley of the Rhone in Switzerland, and sailed from Brigue over the Simplon pass into Italy, and he lost his life in descending at Domodossola, about twenty-five miles from his starting point.

Bider crossed the Pyrenees without stopping and kept on over Spain until he had traversed a distance of about 250 miles, when he landed, without accident, to renew his supply of petrol. His average speed was about fifty-six miles an hour. He was probably less than an hour in crossing the mountains. Heavy rain throughout most of the trip did not stop him.

Nearly simultaneously with Bider's flight, three other aviators were killed in attempting feats not comparable with his in apparent perilousness. In fact, it will be found, from the records that most of the fatal accidents with aeroplanes have occurred in circumstances where no special danger was apprehended. There must be some explanation for this, and it is probably, in some cases at least, to be found in carelessness, or lack of foresight.

One day we read of a man who ascends to a height exceeding that of Mont Blanc, and comes gliding down safely to the earth with the steady swoop of an eagle and a smile of triumph on his face, and the next day we hear of another who is killed by the falling of his machine from a height of only a few hundred feet.

Sometimes it is an undiscovered weakness in the machine that causes the disaster, but that ought to be almost entirely avoidable. Sometimes it is, apparently, loss of self-command at a critical moment. Bider was almost frozen by the cold air over the Pyrenees, but he kept his head, and he had made sure that there was no defect in HIS machine.

Often the trouble arises from treacherous air currents, or the so-called "holes in the air," where the atmospheric pressure unaccountably falls, as if the aviator had plunged into a partial vacuum. This danger can be overcome only by further study of the eccentricities of the air and by continued experience.

It is an interesting reflection that this really successful crossing of a great mountain range by man in mechanical flight has been accomplished in a region where some of the first representatives of our race, untold thousands of years ago, dwelt in caverns of those very mountains and used their rude weapons of stone to combat mammoths and cave bears and sabre-toothed tigers—beasts that have now disappeared from the earth. In the brains of those troglodytes, unknown to them, lurked the spark of divine intelligence which was, in the long course of evolution, to enable their descendants to fly with the birds over the shining peaks at which they gazed with awe from their cavern doors, never dreaming of the might that was in them.

Thoughtless Girls Who Amuse Themselves by Flirting with Married Men to Annoy Wives --- They Are Playing with Fire

By Dorothy Dix

Copyright, 1913, by American Journal-Examiner

Not long ago I heard a pretty and foolish young woman boasting of her flirtations with married men and laughing over what fun it was to make their wives turn pea green with jealousy.

"You should just see the wives," she gurgled with delight; "fat frumps or skinny skeletons, with grizzled hair, and no complexions, and so mad that they could have bitten a tenpenny nail in two when I walked off with their husbands to look at the moon or sit in a palm sheltered corner, or something. My, but I wouldn't be one of those men when his wife gets him home, and have to hear the things he's got to listen to, for a house and lot. But that's the fun of flirting with married men. Outwitting his wife puts ginger into it, and, anyway, I always fascinate married men, so I'm not to blame."

Not to blame for doing her best to entice a married man away from his home and family? Girls do plenty of wrong and silly things that can be excused by their youth and inexperience, but nothing on earth condones the crime of the woman who encourages a man in being faithless even in thought to his marriage vows.

As for a young girl finding amusement in watching the helpless suffering of a wife who sees her husband being enticed away from her, the women of old who diverted themselves by watching wild beasts tear people to death in the arena were no crueler than she.

It does not take any imagination to paint the agony of the middle-aged wife who sees her husband being fascinated by a younger woman, who compares her dull eyes with the girl's bright ones; her heavy figure with the girl's light grace; her faded cheeks with the girl's fresh roses; her dead hair with the girl's glossy locks; her weary and jaded spirit with the girl's effervescence of youth, and who realizes, above all, that the girl has the allure of the new and unknown while she has grown as tedious to her husband as a twice-told tale.

Very likely the woman has burned her beauty out over the kitchen stove cooking for her husband. Very likely her hands have grown knotted and coarse working to make him comfortable, and to help him get a start in the world. Very likely her eyes have grown dim nursing his children. Very likely she is frowsily dressed because she is trying to save his money; but women know with pitiless certainty that men seldom remember what a woman has done for them. They only know how she looks at the present moment, and so no wife puts any faith in her husband's gratitude to her keeping him faithful to her.

That is why it is so easy for any young girl to make a middle-aged wife jealous.

But it's poor sport, girls; as poor sport as to shoot the broken winged dove that is hovering over its nest. If you want to amuse yourself by making anybody jealous, play in your own class. Pick out a rival as young and good-looking as you are, and try to get her admirers away from her. Then you will, at least, have a foeman worthy of your steel. You won't be taking candy away from a sick baby.

Of course the husband who is waiting around for some pretty girl to make eyes at him, and who jumps up and follows the first one who looks over her shoulder at him, isn't really worth his wife's worrying over.

However, such as he is, he is all that she has got. He is the father of her children. He is the man she gave her young heart to and that she'll see through a rosy mist of illusions as long as he lives. She bears his name, and his disgrace will be hers and her children's. His presence and his earnings keep the roof over her head and her babies, and therefore she grows desperate at the thought of his being enticed away from her.

Don't you have a hand in breaking up this home, little sister. Let the woman keep her poor makeshift of a husband. Don't have another woman's tears, nor the black sin of having had any part in rendering little children fatherless, on your soul.

Don't forget that retribution never fails. Some day you, too, will marry. Some day you, too, will grow middle aged, and homely, and see younger and fairer women hovering about your husband, and then you, too, will suffer pang for pang the misery that you inflicted on another woman.

Also bear this in mind, that the girl who flirts with a married man plays with fire. Sometimes she hurts her own heart worse than she does the wife's, for the man who is married to one woman, and makes love to another deals dishonorably by all women. In a worldly sense he is "safe," as being married he does not have to marry the girl, nor can he be sued for breach of promise. Furthermore, the girl herself has broken down the wall that man's chivalry has erected about the innocent and modest young girl, and so what started as a flirtation is very apt to pass into something which spells disaster for the girl.

And don't forget this, either, you girls who think it fun to flirt with married men. The girl who engages in that pastime cuts her own throat, socially and matrimonially. You may laugh at the jealous wives, but it is the wives who issue the invitations to balls and parties and who give the house parties, and once let a girl get the reputation as being fond of married men and her name is dropped from every invitation list. Wives no more encourage a flirtatious girl around their homes than a shepherd does a wolf around his sheepfold.

Nor do young men, the right sort of young men, want to marry the girl who has made free with married men. She is a little too wise. She is too sophisticated. Always and inevitably the smell of scandal hangs about her skirts. It may be undeserved, but it's there, and you can't argue with an odor.

Therefore, girls, in humanity to other women, and in justice to yourself, don't flirt with other women's husbands. The man may be very fascinating. It may be true that he is very unhappy, and that his wife doesn't appreciate him, and doesn't understand him, but just remember that you don't hold the office of public comforter. Thus shall you save yourself and your sister woman much trouble.

THE LITTLE MOTHER

By MINNA IRVING

My mother died so long ago
I don't remember when.
But I was very little, now
You see I'm nearly ten.
My daddy often works for days,
And then goes on a tear,
But I've got Tommy and the twins,
The twins are such a care.

Though Tommy's only six years old
He's got a paper route,
I let him wear my shoes because
His own is all wore out.
Me? I can go barefooted, though
The floor is awful cold
When all the wood and coal is gone,
And everything's been sold.

The twins are just the cutest things.
I named 'em both. This one
Is Alexander Charles and that Is Marcus Scipio.
I ought to put 'em out of skirts
They are so big, but my!
I'm makin' over Ma's old clothes
To dress 'em in, that's why.

I fixed a chair-leg for a doll,
They haven't any toys,
But gee! They wouldn't play with it.
They throwed it down, they're boys!
I want 'em both to grow up good,
No booze, but smart and neat,
And maybe they'll be mayors; then
We'll live on Easy street.
